BRITISH ADVANCE TOWARD STRONG BAPAUME DEFENSE

Haig Reports Gains on Mile Front in Night Fighting; Trenches South of Arras Entered

FRENCH STOP GERMANS

Paris Claims Teuton Attacks Driven Back with Heavy Losses by Curtain Fire

LONDON, Sept. 22.—British troops advanced on a mile front south of the Ancre Thursday night, capturing two lines of trenches between Fleurs and Martinpuich. General Haig reported Friday afternoon.

The gain thrust the British line forward in the direction of Hill 132 and drove the Germans still further back toward the Le Sars-Guede court highway, their next strong line of defense before Bapaume. The British line is now approximately directly north of Fleurs and Martinpuich, General Haig reported.

South of Arras, British detachments entered German trenches and north of Neuville St. Vaast other detachments exploded a mine and occupied the crater.

French Repulse Teutons

PARIS, Sept. 22.—A most violent German attack on the new French lines north of the Somme along the Le Priez-Rancourt front was stopped short by French curtain fires Thursday night, it was officially announced Friday. The Germans were driven back to their own trenches, losing heavily.

Quiet in West Says Berlin

BERLIN, Sept. 22.—On the western front, only grenade fights and artillery duels have occurred on the Somme and Verdun sectors, it was announced Friday.

De Facto Delay Bandit Pursuit, Border Report

EL PASO, Texas, Sept. 22.—Although Pancho Villa is only twenty miles outside Chihuahua City according to an official announcement by Carranza military authorities at Juarez, "vigorous pursuit" of the bandit and his followers has not been taken up since Colonel Ramos abandoned it. General Trevino is still conferring with sub-chiefs before risking a chase of the outlaws.

Refugees are anxious to make affidavit to assure the administration at Washington that the raid was engineered by Villa and was entirely successful.

Accused of planning to join Villa, twenty-two natives were taken from a train during the night outside of Juarez and brought back to the latter city. General Gonzales had received a report that all had announced their intention of joining the bandits.

SNOBBERY CHARGE AGAINST CHILDREN EXCITES WEALTHY

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—Indignant words about the Chicago school board were passed over breakfast coffee here Friday in fashionable South side families. They were spurred forth by the statement made Thursday by President Jacob M. Loeb of the board of education in which he said: "Most of the pupils in the Hyde Park high schools think only of automobiles, dances, silk stockings and parties. There are too many snobs among them."

Other strong criticism of conditions at Chicago's most fashionable high schools were made at the meeting of the school management committee of the board of education on Thursday.

Neighbors Plead For Sunday Tunes Of Hurdy-Gurdy

The swelling sounds of a hurdy-gurdy which beats the time for skaters at a roller-rink on State street, near the city hall, is music to the Sabbath ears of some 200 residents of the neighborhood, according to a petition filed that the music be not stopped on Sunday.

The police had intended to suppress the hurdy-gurdy on Sundays, but since the neighbors enjoy the music, according to their petition, nothing will be done, Mayor Bentley said.

OFFICER IS SHOT

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—As J. W. Diak, a policeman, was attempting to clear a rooming house where he had been called Thursday afternoon, he was shot in the stomach by a man who is now under arrest, and is at a hospital in a dangerous condition. Mattie Atker, was also dangerously wounded.

Hid Cash in Sleep Police Theory of Freak Theft Tale

Olaus Olson, 2265 Market street, rose in the midst of his nap, moved perhaps by some dream of robbers, took the money from his pantry bank and hid it in a safe place. When he awoke he could not remember moving the hoard.

That is the police explanation of the freak robbery which Olson reported Wednesday evening after he awoke from a three hour nap. The police, after a revealed the house thoroughly investigated, which revealed the house thoroughly locked and nothing tampered with, were unable to persuade themselves that any thief in his senses would have carefully packed in a trunk the wallet which he had emptied, move money without taking it, toss aside a purseful of cash and make off with a bottle of alcohol.

A small amount of money was found hidden on the premises, which Olson did not remember laying away. This, the police believe, indicate the truth of their theory.

All Thursday afternoon they helped Olson ransack his house for the money he reported missing, but no trace of it was found. Olson, in his sleep, hid the money so well that he himself can't find it, if the police theory is right.

SPECIAL TRAINS TO BRING CROWD TO ANNUAL FAIR

Austin and Portage Are Starting Points of Two Railroad Excursions Scheduled

RACE ENTRIES CLOSE

Seventy Horses of Fast Class Are Booked to Appear During the Week

La Crosse is preparing to greet one of the largest crowds that ever witnessed La Crosse fair week, when the Interstate fair opens here next week. While officials of the fair association and their assistants are buried in the work of arranging details for the opening on Tuesday, hotel proprietors and rooming house keepers are making plans to furnish every fair week caller with lodgings.

From the general outlook it is predicted that only inclement weather can damage the events of the week. The Milwaukee railroad makes an announcement that special trains will be run from Austin, Minn., and Portage, Wis., and return on Wednesday and Thursday. The Austin train will arrive here at 11 o'clock a. m. and the Portage train at 10:05. They will return on both days early in the evening.

Burlington, Northwestern and Southeastern railroad officials predict large crowds from small towns on their lines in the vicinity of La Crosse. Hundreds of persons from Minnesota towns near La Crosse are planning to attend the fair, and it is believed that Northeastern Iowa will send a good sized delegation. Tomah, Sparta, Verona, Westby and other small cities and villages just outside the borders of La Crosse county will be represented strongly.

"As far as we're concerned," Van Auker said on Friday, "everything is set for the week."

All race entries closed Thursday. Concession entries will be closed on Monday.

"While we can still use a few more concessions on the grounds," Mr. Van Auker said, "they will have to be mighty few, for we are almost full. Already we have had to make arrangements for two midways for pike concessions, and as for the livestock and hogs, we have had to secure tents for them."

Seventy horses—one of the fastest strings of pacers and trotters ever seen on the La Crosse track—will participate in the eight races to be staged, two each day. Purse aggregating the total sum of $4,000 are at stake. Two $600 purses, two $400 purses, and four $500 are to be battled for. The 2:08 pace is the only race of the week not full of contestants.

CONVICT WORK SUCCESS

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 22.—The initial experiment of working convicts of the state penitentiary on the state and county roads, inaugurated during the past summer, has been so successful that the board of control is making extensive plans for a continuation of the work on a big scale during the coming summer.

$60,000,000 ASSESSMENT RAISE

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 22.—Minnesota's real estate tax assessment will show a $60,000,000 increase this year, the state tax commission in session Thursday found. The United States Steel corporation in St. Louis county is assessed $13,000,000, a large increase.

SEVERED LEG IS FOUND ON WHEEL HERALD TRAGEDY

Car-smiths in the Local Yards Are Startled by Discovery of Growsome Relic

FIND MAN IS KILLED

Investigation Reveals Mangled Body on the Tracks Near Lake City

A battered human leg, freshly severed, startled car-smiths tapping the wheels of an extra freight train that pulled into the north side yards of the Milwaukee railroad at dawn Friday morning. The leg was wrapped in bloody remnants of overalls, which had become twisted about the axle of a car-wheel. The member was wedged in the sand-board of the truck.

Switchmen removed the member from its lodgement, and called Coroner W. L. Tetley to take charge of the growsome relic. He immediately began an investigation which resulted in the discovery, near Lake City, Minn., of a mangled body from which the right leg was missing. The body, apparently that of a laborer, was not identified. It was so badly cut up that identification may be impossible.

The manner of the man's death is not known, except that it is apparent he was struck by the extra freight which carried the fragment to La Crosse. The leg was cut off cleanly just below the knee.

Coroner Tetley shipped the leg back to Lake City Friday morning, for burial with the rest of the unknown's body.

THIRD NEW CASE OF PLAQUE FOUND CLOSE TO THE CITY

Baby of Alex Spahofsky Taken to Isolation Hospital with Infantile Paralysis

ILL SINCE LAST SUNDAY

Case Is Well Developed and the Child Has Lost the Use of One Limb

The third new case of infantile paralysis to become known in La Crosse county within the week was located by authorities on Thursday at a farm six miles out of the city on the West Salem road. The victim is the four-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Spahofsky. The child's father runs H. E. Wolfe's farm.

The child has been ill since Sunday, although the case was not immediately diagnosed as infantile paralysis. Certainly was reached, however, when the baby lost the use of one of its legs.

Dr. J. M. Furstman, city health commissioner, has investigated the case. In place of establishing a quarantine, the child and its mother are to be taken to the isolation hospital in connection with St. Francis.

More State Cases

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 22.—Infantile paralysis cases reported Friday from Keenah, Manawa, Mount Pleasant, and Fox Lake township, Dodge county. Deaths have occurred at Yorkville, Racine county; Galloway, Marathon county; and York, Dane county. Total cases now number 278 and deaths 27.

VENGEFUL SOPHS LEAD LOCAL BOY ON NIGHT PARADE

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 22.—Because he signed an agreement with nine other freshmen to throw twelve sophomores in the lake by end of the year, Alf Gunderson, La Crosse, was dragged from his bed in the Y. M. C. A. building last night and marched down State street attired in pajamas, bathrobe and slippers. He was released at Frances street. Gunderson is a son of Dr. Adolf Gunderson of La Crosse.

According to daily Cardinal, student morning publication, sophomore hazers broke loose for the first time last night. A dozen freshmen went through the annual performance of rolling a peanut, giving high school yells and seeing to the co-ed population. Two La Crosse freshmen figured in the matter, Gunderson and S. Moore.

FIRE AT NOTRE DAME

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 22.—Chemistry hall at Notre Dame University was destroyed by fire Wednesday evening. Two top stories of the same building were burned off one week ago.

Whiskey Handicap Won by Bartender At Second Hurdle

Frank Walker, 54, Boston, Mass., will spend thirty days in county jail here for stealing, what he calls, a necessity of life. The necessity was whiskey.

I just had to have it, judge," Walker told the court. Walker took the whiskey from Sheshian Markos, owner of the Western hotel, near the Burlington station. Markos was cleaning the back bar. A large collection of bottles stood on the front bar. Walker came in. He saw opportunity beckon when Markos' back was turned, and swept up an armful of bottles. But Markos saw him in the bar mirror, and a chase began.

It was in the nature of an obstacle race. Walker started through the hotel kitchen, as being the nearest exit. He made the door, which was hurdle No. One, without mishap, but he got away on the wrong foot for Hurdle No. Two, a table loaded with dishes. There was a loud crash, a thud, a yell of triumph from the pursuer, and the resultant snack of fist against face.

When the police rescued him, Walker had a bright blue eye, a nose extensively remodeled, and other rough-and-ready alterations in his features.

SHOWDOWN DUE IN GOTHAM'S GREAT TRACTION STRIKE

Mayor Mitchel Warns He Will Call Out Militia in Event of a General Sympathetic Strike

LABOR LEADERS FIRM

State Industrial Commission Subpoenas Traction Officials and Strike Leaders to Appear

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—New York's labor troubles reached their most critical stage Friday. Before nightfall there will be a break either one way or the other.

Mayor Mitchel has warned that he will call out the militia in the event of a general strike in sympathy with the striking street railway men. Despite this, labor leaders went in session to finally consider whether 800,000 organized workers shall be called out.

Whether a general walkout is to be called rested Friday afternoon on the result of a conference of representatives of sixty-five labor union of the city.

The labor leaders went into session at the Continental hotel at 2135.

Characterizing a sympathetic strike as "grossly violative of the laws," Mayor Mitchel has warned the labor leaders that he will use all of the "military and civil power vested in the mayor" to cope with such a situation.

Backed by Samuel Gompers, American Federation of Labor, labor leaders stoutly maintain that they will stick by their fight for the right to organize and claim that the struggle is on trade unionism and is vital to the welfare of all organized labor.

Industrial Commission in Fight

The state industrial commission had entered the fight and exercising its legal rights has issued subpoenas for the traction officials and strike leaders to appear before it on Monday. The bureau of mediation of the industrial commission will argue the adoption of a compromise and will use its powers to the fullest extent to enforce the compromise which provides for the immediate calling off of the strike by labor leaders; the re-employment of strikers by traction lines; the reduction of time of operation of the Interborough's individual contracts from two years to one year.

Ten persons were seriously injured Friday when a taxicab in which they were being carried to work because of the street car strike, collided with a coal truck on Avenue A and Twentieth street and was demolished.

This accident, growing out of the labor troubles, increased the number of injured in smash-ups resulting from the strike to nearly 100. Four persons have been killed and with plans for a general sympathetic strike hanging in the balance even greater toll is expected.

Meanwhile normal operation of the subway and elevated lines has been maintained. Intermittent disorders in various parts of the city kept the police busy during the night and early morning but no serious disorders were reported. Partial night service on cross-town lines was attempted for the first time with heavy police details.

CAN'T FIND GOOD MEN

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 22.—Minnesota's administration is having trouble finding two men to become commissioners of Koochiching county.

SUFFRAGIST'S WILL LEAVES ALL ESTATE TO SISTER-IN-LAW

Former La Crosse Woman Who Ended Own Life in New York Leaves Estate of $10,000

RING TO MRS. KINCAID

Bulk of Estate Goes to Mrs. Andrew Nevins of Madison, S. D., Formerly of La Crosse

The estate of Miss Grace Nevins, niece of the late General C. C. Washburn, prominent suffragist who ended her life in New York city by means of hydrocyanic acid, goes to her sister-in-law, Clara Thornton Nevins, according to a will filed in New York recently. Mrs. Nevins is the wife of the suffragist's brother, Andrew G. Nevins of Madison, S. D., formerly of this city. She is the mother of Mrs. H. W. Kincaid, 926 Main street, and Miss Bessie Nevins of Boston, Mass.

Miss Nevins, who was about 54 years old, was found dead in her apartment at No. 223 West 137th street, New York city, on September 13. She was dead four days when her body was discovered.

Miss Nevins was an heiress, an active worker for woman suffrage, had an income, it is said of about $250 a month from her father's estate, and is said to have left an estate of about $10,000 in cash and in jewelry. She was also a trained nurse. Why she committed suicide, as a matter of fact, has not been ascertained.

Miss Nevins formerly lived in La Crosse, and she went to New York city about fifteen years ago. She was a sister of Alexander G. Nevins, at one time editor of the Chicago Tribune, who died in 1902.

The will was as follows:

"In the name of God, Amen. "I, Grace Nevins, being of sound and disposing mind and memory, and considering the uncertainty of this life, do make, publish and declare this to be my last will and testament, as follows:

"First: After my lawful debts are paid, I give all moneys of which I die possessed, to my sisters, Fannie H. and Helen, share and share alike. In case only one sister is living at the time of my death, the whole is to go to the survivor. In the event of neither of my sisters surviving me, I give all moneys of which I die possessed, to my sister-in-law, Clara Thornton, wife of my brother, Andrew G. Nevins, at present living at La Crosse, Wis. Or in the event of her not surviving me, to her children, Helen Amelia, now Mrs. H. W. Kincaid, Bessie and Sylvester Nevins, share and share alike.

"My two diamond rings I give to my sisters, the one set in the form of a star to Fannie; the one with the crown to Helen. In case only one sister is living, both are to go to the survivor, and in case of neither surviving me, to my nieces, Helen Amelia (Mrs. H. W. Kincaid) and Bessie Nevins.

"I hereby appoint my sisters, Fannie H. and Helen Nevins, to be my executrices of this, my last will and testament, to serve without bond, hereby revoking all former wills.

"In witness whereof I have hereunto subscribed my name, and affixed my seal, the first day of December, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and sixteen.

"GRACE NEVINS.

Witnesses: "MINNIE J. DAY, "JULIA DE KAY.

"Subscribed by Grace Nevins, the testatrix in the foregoing will, in the presence of each of us, and at the time of making such subscription the above instrument was declared by the said testatrix to be her last will and testament, and each of us, at the request of the testatrix, and in her presence and in the presence of each other, sign our names as witnesses thereto, at the end of the will.

"MINNIE J. DAY, 131 West 56th Street, New York City. "JULIA DE KAY, 42 West 17th Street, New York."

VISITING NURSE TAG DAY FIXED FOR OCTOBER 7

The annual Tag day for the benefit of the visiting nurse's fund will be held on Saturday, October 7, and will follow the general plan of the one conducted last year. The receipts last year were over $1,200 and more than 13,000 tags were sold. Counting on a more general interest and an even greater amount of co-operation, those in charge hope to realize a still larger sum from the coming affair.

The tag day committee is in charge of Mrs. Frank W. Sisson. Those assisting her are the Mesdames F. Sutt, A. W. Chubb, G. Lueck, C. L. Lien, A. W. Langenbach, B. O'Connell, E. Evans, D. G. MacMillan, F. Cowles, E. Dow, E. Perkins, C. Felber, Frank Funke, Samuel Fellows, Myron Locke, Lillian Finch, Frank Allen, W. Sawyer, and the Mesdames Magdalene Tillman and Charlotte Colman.

Tag day in La Crosse has received the official endorsement of the Chamber of Commerce.

BULGARIANS AND THEIR ALLIES MEET REVERSES ON ALL FRONTS, REPORT

Badger Soldiers Made Models for Other Guardsmen

ST. ELMO, Tex., Sept. 22.—Wisconsin troops in the provisional twelfth division were held up Friday as "model soldiers" by Brig. Gen. H. A. Green, division commander to Illinois and Kansas guardsmen in his command.

Green pointed out that in the likes so far the Wisconsin brigade has not lost as many men as the others.

BADGER CAVALRY TROOP OF ROOKIES ORDERED SOUTH BY DEPARTMENT OF WAR

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—Two infantry battalions of the Wyoming national guard, Troop A of Kansas, and Troop B of Wisconsin were ordered to the border Friday by the war department.

Troop B consists mostly of Milwaukee men. It is a "rookie" troop, enlisted in the Cream City after the militiamen had been sent from Camp Douglas to the border. It is officered by a former lieutenant of troop A, and was formed as the second command in a projected state regiment of cavalry.

Troop B went to Camp Douglas shortly after the first brigade went to Texas. It has been in camp ever since, learning infantry drill because of a shortage of horses.

Troop Ready to Leave

CAMP DOUGLAS, Wis., Sept. 22.—Troop B, one of Wisconsin's two cavalry organizations, is ready to leave for the border at notice, it was stated here Friday when it was learned through the United Press that official orders had been issued at Washington.

Troop B was organized since the mobilization call last June. Troop A is now in Texas. Captain A. M. Krench is in command.

TWO BRITISH AND 36 CARRANZISTAS KILLED BY BANDITS SHIPPERS REPORT

GALVESTON, Texas, Sept. 22.—Two British subjects and thirty-six out of thirty-eight Carranza soldiers were killed when Villistas raided an oil camp near Tuxpam, September 16, according to officers of the tank steamer Topila, which arrived here Friday. The attack was made in conjunction with the raid on Chihuahua City.

Two Carranza officers sought refuge in the Englishmen's houses and the latter were killed for protecting them. The Carranza soldiers were greatly outnumbered.

ALLIES EXPECT FURTHER GERMAN PEACE OVERTURES

LONDON, Sept. 22.—Germany will set another peace kite flying about the middle of October, British officialdom, both military and civil, confidently expects.

Recently apparently well authenticated rumors have reached London that Germany, suffering huge losses because of the recent allied offensive, is endeavoring to suggest an armistice through Spain or the United States. It is understood on reliable authority that King Alfonso so far is unresponsive and is unlikely to act. Americans conversant with inside British sentiment feel certain that any such move on the part of Washington would not only be foredoomed to failure but would arouse the most bitter resentment of the allies and also permanently eliminate Washington as a possible mediator.

BRYAN SPEAKS FOR WILSON

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Sept. 22.—Before a large and enthusiastic audience Tuesday night, William J. Bryan spoke in the interests of President Wilson and the Democratic party in general. Many persons were turned away. Mr. Bryan set forth in detail the constructive legislation of the administration. Mr. Bryan left here Wednesday for Evanston, Wyoming.

SERBS AND FRENCH ADMINISTER HEAVY DEFEAT SAYS PARIS

Serbians Reported Reaching the Positions North of Florina, with French Fighting Nearby

CLAIM DOBRUDJA GAINS

Teutonic Allies Reported Falling Back; Sofia Admits Attacks Have Been Unsuccessful

PARIS, Sept. 22.—The Bulgarians have sustained a heavy defeat at the hands of the Serbians on the Zbrosko, it was officially announced Friday, and have also been pushed back by the French.

Pursuing their advance in the Broda river region, the Serbs have reached Vraband north of Florina after repulsing the Bulgarian attacks.

French troops cleared the entire region northwest of Ardensko of the Bulgarians and progressed, after heavy fighting, to the heights dominating the Florina-Poplin road.

Teutons Beaten Back

LONDON, Sept. 22.—Under heavy Russo-Rumanian hammer blows, the Teutonic forces in the Dobrudja have fallen back more than five miles and are still in retreat said Bucharest dispatches Friday.

A wireless dispatch from Rome Friday afternoon reported that the Russo-Rumanians have won victories in the Dobrudja and Transylvania and that the Russians are again advancing in the Carpathians and in Galicia.

An earlier official statement reported the Bulgarians burning villages and ravaging the country as they fell back. The official statement also reported the capture of Szekely Udvaharhy, an industrial town of about 8,000 inhabitants, forty-five miles inside the Transylvania frontier.

Sofia dispatches admitted Friday the German-Bulgarian attacks against the Russo-Rumanian line have been unsuccessful and that the Rumanians have gained a little ground at some points. An official statement issued at Sofia made no mention of a Bulgarian retirement, but reported that the Bulgarians are consolidating their positions in the Dobrudja.

The defeat of Field Marshal Mackensen in the Dobrudja invasion and the check administered to the Austro-Germans on the northwestern frontier of Rumania has caused a renewal of the demand here for a settlement of affairs at Athens.

It is no longer any secret that the new Greek cabinet is not regarded as favorable to the allies; English correspondents at Athens cabled Friday that it was highly improbable that the allies would be able to enter into cordial relations with the new ministry. Reports have reached here that the revolts which have broken out in isolated parts of Greece may mean the beginning of a real revolution headed by ex-Premier Venizelos to overthrow King Constantine and bring Greece into the war.

Balkan Camps Shelled

SALONIKI, Sept. 22.—British warships shelled Bulgarian camps at Neokhor, near the Gulf of Orfani, with satisfactory results, it was officially announced.

Suspect Loan To Mexico Is Conferees' Work

By CARL D. GROAT (United Press Staff Correspondent) NEW LONDON, Conn., Sept. 22.—Formal session of the Mexican-American conference was had Friday but the presence of Alberto Pani, one of the Mexican commissioners in Boston, revived reports that a Mexican loan is being discussed.

The Mexican representatives have insisted all along that financial questions are entirely secondary to the settlement of the problem of border patrol. With the program for border patrol practically completed, it is believed possible that the commission intends to take up Mexican financial affairs as its next subject of discussion.

FIRE ON SHIP

GALVESTON, Tex., Sept. 22.—The Morgan liner El Aba arrived here from New York Friday and Captain Freeman reported a serious fire that started in her bunkers and started a portion of the cargo before it was extinguished Thursday night. The extent of the damage has not been ascertained.

The TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

WINIFRED'S PLUCK

By IZOLA FORRESTER

(Copyright, 1906, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"It seems too bad," Mrs. Ramsey stopped thoughtfully, but the professor did not even glance up from his writing. "I said, dear, it does seem too bad that we are somewhat bound to take the girl here."

"Not bound, nothing compulsory about it, Betsy," the professor responded cheerfully. His large tortoiseshell spectacles added to his usual look of benign attractiveness. "Hector merely asked if we could take her with us. Find her a good room around at any of the houses. I daresay the Crosbys would take her; I thought it would relieve you."

"Well, it would. She could be a lot of help if she's kind—willing, I mean. So many girls of her age never even see what's right under their noses to do. She could look after Betty a great deal and help Anna with the upstairs work, and maybe with the ironing and hanging out wash-day, and I could give her some sewing for the children, but wouldn't trust her with the baby."

"No, no, I wouldn't, if I were you, Betsy," said the professor dryly. She'll probably have enough to do and keep up with her classes besides."

"It was on account of Everitt that I spoke. You see, I feel just a little bit responsible for him. Laura begged me to keep him out of—well, you know what I mean, dear. Not to let him fall in love until he is through college."

"Can't help falling in love at a college place. They all do." The professor's eyes twinkled. "You know, we are a horrible example, Betsy. I'd let things take their proper course. Maybe the girl's ordinary looking. I don't feel as if I could refuse Hector. We were classmates, and he's been pretty hard up for years. It means quite a good deal to him, this putting his girl through college. If I could afford it, I'd have her here and never ask any return at all."

"Oh, that wouldn't be right. Independence is the first principle of success. Self-reliance and self-support go hand in hand."

"Doubtless, doubtless." The professor's mind reverted again to his work. "Write to her to come, anyway, Betsy, and don't worry."

Everitt came downstairs just as his aunt sealed the letter. He was tall and boyish, with a happy, whimsical expression of perpetual optimism.

"Can I mail that for you, Aunt Betsy?"

"Why—er—yes, I suppose so."

It almost seemed to Betsy as if she had purposely and knowingly put him into danger when she even intrusted the letter to him. He was such a clean, frank, splendid boy. And the girl might be—anything. She tried to explain her coming.

"She's the daughter of an old classmate of your uncle. He is the head of a mission now in Southern Oklahoma and has a large family. Winifred is the eldest. She wants to work her way through college and we are going to have her live with us. She is to help me somewhat partially to pay her board."

"Gee, isn't that plucky of her?"

After Winifred's arrival that seemed to be his attitude of mind toward her—admiration for her pluck. Life had come along with gifts for Everitt ever since he could remember. His mother had plenty of means to put him through college and start him in business later. Now, here was a girl handicapped at every point winning her own way. He felt himself an idler as the weeks passed and he saw how she gave Aunt Betsy all the help in her power, suiting herself to the latter's little peculiarities, giving the professor a lift over his essays and lectures, petting 4-year-old Betty out of the sulks and still making all her classes.

And the worst of it was, no matter how the other girls tried to smooth it over, she was left out of the smartest frat dances, and the best girls' clubs on account of her position at the professor's house. The college was just near enough to New York to have caught a tincture of metropolitan snobbery from it even in little ways, and Winifred took her social hazing with a fine grace.

The event of the early winter season was the A. G. L.'s dance at the fraternity house. The boys were the hosts, and most of the exclusive little frats belonged to the senior year. Only the very pick of the girls were invited, and the boys even held consultations over the lists beforehand. It was Everitt who set Winifred's name down as his choice, and he told her of it the day before the committee suggested that he select another girl. The boy who told him was a brother of Nan Holland, leader of the New York girls' crowd. Everitt remembered he had invited Nan twice before that term. He turned on Ted Holland with steady eyes.

"I'll bring Miss Gray or no girl."

News and gossip travel quickly in small town college circles. Somehow the rumor grew until it reached Mrs. Ramsey's ears and troubled her. It would never do for Everitt in his senior year to be absent from the A. G. L.'s dance, while for Winifred it really didn't matter, since she never aimed for the social side. She really had too much good sense, Betsy had said.

So now, relying on that good sense, she told Winifred just the way matters stood, and the girl from Oklahoma listened with a little smile, as she combed Betty's soft curls over her finger in little close ringlets.

"Why, of course, I understand, Mrs. Ramsey," she said gently. "I'll tell you what we'll do. I have promised one of the girls in my chemistry class to run out over Sunday with her. She lives at a farm just outside town, and I can skate down the river to the place. It will be lots of fun. You can tell Everitt."

Mrs. Ramsey never quite forgot the look of the man that came to the boy's face when she told him. He had come home whistling the night of the dance, had stayed to dinner at one of the boys' rooms over a chafing-dish spread, and started up the stairs three steps at a time to dress when she spoke to him.

"I thought it best to try and make her understand how unpleasant the other girls might make it for her if she went," she concluded. "Now, don't be foolish, Everitt."

"Foolish," he laughed shortly. "Aunt Betsy, she's going to skate five miles down the river to the Davies, and every student has been warned against skating on account of the danger. There isn't a soul to hear her if she screams for help. I'm going after her. You'd better tell Uncle Felix and let him try and get some help out after us. We'll need it."

He caught his skates and boots from the hall seat box and was going before she realized it. It seemed miles even to the river. He took the short cut over the hill, put on his boots, and struck out along the shore where the ice seemed thickest.

Pines and oaks lined the hills around. In the moonlight the dried leathery leaves on the latter looked like fresh foliage, he thought. A young moon skimmed the sky low to the south. Back in the town he heard the frat call from some of the boys as they went on to the dance. But before him stretched the ice-covered river like a curving silver road unwinding before him, and no sign of Winifred. As he left the town far behind he began to call her name, the pet name Betty gave her.

"Win! Oh, Win!"

And finally he saw her ahead, well out in midstream, skating leisurely with the long, steady glide she had. He caught up with her, thanking heaven she was safe. She turned her head and smiled back at him just as the ice cracked under his feet, and he saw the black water surge up between them.

"Don't come near!" she shouted to her, but she had already swerved to meet him, and as the great sheet of ice bent down she went with it ahead of him.

The weight of his skates and the heavy boots hampered him. The sting of the ice-cold water left him numb with shock, but he felt bottom under his feet. The water only came to his chest. And he knew Winifred was at least six inches shorter than himself. But she had kept her balance going down and was standing, too, lifting her chin high from the water.

"Reach out your hand," he called to her, feeling along the bottom with his feet cautiously. It did seem to take away the horror when their hands touched and gripped closely. Her teeth chattered, but she was plucky all through. The ice broke under his touch when he tried to rest any weight upon it. And the strangest thing happened. They were close now, side by side, not knowing how long they could stand the strain, and Winifred's face was near. Without one word of love or questioning, Everitt bent and kissed her. Somehow it didn't seem like a kiss of matehood. There was something tender and sacred in it, just the acknowledgment of all the other knew.

"Hello, hello, there!" came a shout from the shore road and the hum of a motor. Two lights swung into view. "Are you in?" called the professor.

"Yes, sir, right over here," Everitt called back.

There were six of the fellows in the car, with ropes and a couple of planks. He lifted Winifred up first on the plank and shoved it cautiously along the ice until they got her, then climbed up himself, the rope under his armpits while they held him steady.

An hour afterward Mrs. Ramsey stole upstairs again to see if Winifred was all right. She lay wrapped in blankets on the couch before the open fire in the best bedroom, a guest of honor, and over her leaned Everitt.

"We were just planning, Aunt Betsy," he said, happily. "How Win can finish her course even after we're married. Aren't you glad for me?"

"Glad, dear," Mrs. Ramsey sighed, as she patted the brown braids lying on the pillow. "I think you're a very lucky boy."

When a poor girl who is long and lanky suddenly acquires wealth immediately she becomes tall and graceful.

WOMEN SHOULD BE ADEPT AT FLIRTING SAYS ENGLISH ACTRESS

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—"Every woman should know how to flirt," said Constance Collier, English actress beauty, and she added that age and weight had nothing to do with it.

"Fat women may look funny flirting just now, because slim girls are the rage, but that is a temporary condition," said Miss Collier. "In the old days no woman was thought beautiful unless she was fat."

"Women who flirt preserve their looks and figures longer than those who settle down like the old fashioned Japanese wife who shaved her eyebrows and blackened her teeth to prove her conjugal devotion. Today men seek in a wife a pal, a friend, and a flirt."

SLAYS SELF TO JOIN WIFE WHO PLAYED DOLL WAS THEIR BABY

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—When Harry Howland, newspaper reporter, ended his life at Los Angeles on Wednesday, after writing his own story of his suicide, he went to join his little crippled wife, who was buried with the doll they played was their baby, in the coffin beside her, according to a story published here on Thursday.

Howland's death unsealed the lips of one of his newspaper friends here who knew the reporter's secret.

Howland's wife loved children, but none ever came into their home. Only a few friends knew that behind a locked door in their home in Kansas City they kept a life-sized doll. They pretended that the doll was their baby and went ahead with plans for its future.

Howland was broken-hearted when his wife died a year ago. He buried the doll in the coffin beside her and disappeared, turning up later in Los Angeles. It was grief over his wife's death, according to Los Angeles dispatches, that caused his suicide.

Babies Die Because Mothers Don't Know

Most babies are born healthy—yet one in five still slips from its mother's arms each year—simply because mothers don't know the few simple things that will keep their babies well.

Plenty of air—plenty of care—and the right food—that's what you need to know what the right food is?

You know, if you cannot nurse your baby, he must have milk in some form. There is a way to give your baby all the good in cow's milk without subjecting his delicate stomach to the dangers that raw cow's milk so often carries.

Thousands of mothers are finding the right way every day. They are bringing up their babies on

Nestlé's Food

(A complete food—not a milk modifier)

Nestlé's is milk from healthy cows purified, then the tough, heavy, curds are modified—the baby needs are added. Reduced to a powder it comes in an air-tight can. No hand has touched it—no germ can reach it. To prepare you add only fresh water and boil one minute. It is a complete food containing all the nourishment needed to build a happy, healthy baby. Nurse your baby if you can—if you can't—keep him safe on Nestlé's Food.

The Searchlight

FIRE FIGHTING TROLLEY CAR Duluth, Minn., has added a unique feature to its fire fighting equipment, which is proving so efficient that it is likely to be copied in other cities. An old trolley car has been taken for this purpose. The seats were removed and hose boxes installed, which run through the middle of the car, which is open at both ends so that no matter in which direction the car is going the hose can be released from the end nearest the fire. The car carries a full equipment of fire fighting apparatus and also an entire company of firemen. The fire trolley is given as nearly full right of way upon all tracks as can be arranged without danger of collisions.

Mean Brute "Love is a dream," gushed Miss Oldgirl.

"And marriage is an alarm clock," commented Mr. Oldbath.

Another Prescription The door opened suddenly and a lady rushed in. "Oh, doctor," she cried, "the baby had swallowed some ink and now he's looking blue. What shall I do?"

"Give him a dose of blotter," said the doctor. "This is certainly an absorbing case."

WHAT HANGS ON THE ELECTION

To people who may be inclined to get themselves "het up" over the economic phases of the presidential issues, we commend the following editorial from the Saturday Evening Post:

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States concludes, after looking over the ground, that this presidential campaign will have no effect upon current business, which is another way of saying that nothing of importance to the material interests of the country is definitely involved in it. No doubt the republicans will tinker the tariff somewhat if they have the opportunity. But revolt against the Payne-Aldrich act is still fresh in their memories; the present tariff is frankly protective; any republican changes in it would probably be expressed by five per cent here and ten per cent there. Nowhere else that we know of is there any expressed difference between the two parties which definitely touches an important material interest. Tariff, internal taxation, banking, currency, regulation of railroads, "social justice" measures like the new child-labor law, conservation of national resources—on all these things there is no expressed difference that is very important. There is no expressed difference concerning continued hostility to combination in business. There might be a difference in the spirit in which these virtually common policies were applied and in the general competence of the administration; but there is nothing very tangible about that. Business men used to deplore disturbance of business every four years by a presidential campaign, which was traditionally a period of greater or less reaction. Apparently we have achieved the business man's ideal of two parties, which, for all that anybody can definitely foresee, will legislate so nearly alike that he can neither deplore nor elate himself over the prospects of either's victory at the polls.

This gets pretty close to what, in the eloquence of slang, is termed "brass tacks". We indulge in wild demonstrations and loose talk during campaigns. We "imagine vain things". When all is said and done the differences in national administrations, so far as the individual is concerned, are about as substantial as the holes in a Swiss cheese. Eliminate the sentimental and psychological, and it matters not much what fair, average American is president, so far as day-to-day conditions go. The truth is that conditions in the United States will be largely controlled by world influences and will conform to world conditions. Perhaps our greatest need is a businesslike reorganization of the nation's fiscal affairs; but even here the consciousness of exact economy and wise expenditure will be felt more directly than the actual saving as it affects the individual. Really, it is on the humane side, through activities that develop civilization rather than business, that the character of government is most important, and there the development is so gradual that it is sensed by comparison of generations rather than of administrations. No matter who is elected in November, there'll be birth and death, marriage and divorce, illness and health, sun, wind and boundless opportunity. There'll be the high cost of living and "the three within me blind" for real improvement in government can come only as the average of civilization grows; and the value of the present campaign as an influence upon the tone and intelligence of society is probably more important to the world than is the outcome as it affects the political fortunes of candidates.

IF ONLY ALL PEOPLE UNDERSTAND EACH OTHER

We have "The Home Beautiful" and "The City Beautiful". Why not "The County Beautiful", "The State Beautiful", "The Nation Beautiful"? Why not "The Life Beautiful"?

The La Crosse Chamber of Commerce has enunciated the doctrine that the way to make La Crosse grow and become prosperous is to make life in La Crosse appeal to the manufacturer and his employees. That idea was the foundation of the masterful appeal of Mr. Trefz, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

The ample life begins in the home and must be worked out through the city, the county, the state, the nation. It can not be complete unless all these agencies co-ordinate. The dollar is nothing. If hoarded, it is useless; if it buys license and degradation, it is bad; only if it buys something that makes life better is it useful. There is no real value that can not be translated in terms of life. A great many men who give their influence to the conservative political program, will be found in their own communities devoting themselves to the things that make for "The Life Beautiful".

If we eliminate the political fog and get a clear vision of the life work of Senator La Follette, it will appear plainly that this work has been directed toward "The Life Beautiful". What our chambers of commerce have found true of cities—that they prosper best by being made livable and lovable—La Follette believes to be true of the nation. These chambers now agree that the city that would grow and prosper must make its working people, as well as its employing class, comfortable and contented. La Follette's program aims to do just that in all the land.

IT NEVER PAYS TO BE A GOUP

The pompous individual, whose fictitious importance is so irritating, sometimes comes a cropper. Imagine the delight of a commercial traveler well known in La Crosse, who relates the following experience with a person who thought himself a personage.

The salesman had entered the office and made a polite approach. The super-dignitary grunted something about being "too busy" and superciliously turned his back.

"Mary, bring m' m' mail," he bellowed.

As the neglected traveler arose to take his leave, Mary appeared with Old Pomposity's "mail". In her hand she carried a letter.

The commercial traveler's parting grin still burns red in the humiliating memory of the person who was too "big" to be a gentleman.

This is the season in which people become wildly excited about who shall mismanage the public offices.

What has become of the campaign orator who, in "the good old days", wept his heart out over the American flag?

Having achieved the seedless orange, what has Luther Burbank to offer in the way of the jobless politician?

Try This, Fellows The dance was in aid of some fund or other; but that didn't make it any more interesting to Simpkins, who was clearly in the last stages of Jordan.

"Wish I could get my wife to go home," he grumbled to a friend; "but she won't leave till after the last dance." "I can tell you how to do it," replied his friend. "How?" asked Simpkins, eagerly. "It's simple. Just you dance three times in succession with that pretty girl over there in the pale blue dress, and your wife will take you home in a hurry."

"Aye, an' here be our initials that you carved, Sandy," she replied. The evening alone was broken only by the buzz of an aeroplane overhead. Heavy laden memories thrilled through the twilight and flushed their glowing cheeks. "Ah, Mary," exclaimed Sandy, "you're just as beautiful as ye ever were, an' I have never forgotten ye, my bonnie lass." "And ye, Sandy," she cried, while her blue eyes moistened, "are just as big a bear as ever, an' I believe ye list the same."

THE TRIBUNE'S DAILY TRAVELETTE (By Nisab)

THE MAGDALEN ISLANDS If you are looking for a place where you can escape the war bulletins and the baseball scores, go to the Magdalen Islands early this fall. A week or two after you arrive, if you time yourself rightly, the winter freeze will cut off all communication with the mainland, and for six or seven months you will have an uninterrupted chance to sit down and think things over.

You will be in the midst of one of the quaintest and most provincial of peoples, a colony of nine thousand, not a tenth of whom have ever been from their own little archipelago. The winter climate is favorable for the formation of intimate acquaintanceship; you should be able to write a book about the islanders when the spring thaw sets you free. The long gales come howling down from the north and east, picking up all the loose cold of the Arctic Ocean and the North Atlantic; the Magdalen Islanders shut themselves up in their tight little cottages and smoke and wait on the weather.

Once in a while the food supply runs short, and the population can console itself by wirelessing the fact to Canada. Messages of sympathy can come in return, but salt pork can not be sent by wireless. There is nothing to do but hold out until spring makes navigation possible. Even the wireless is a luxury of recent date. The last time food ran short the message was sent to the mainland in a barrel that finally drifted to shore. The relief ship could not get through until three months later.

In summer things are more cheerful. The men go seal hunting. They fish for cod and herring and lobster. It is possible to explore the neighborhood in comfort. You find that there are no towns or villages worth the name. The little cottages are scattered apparently haphazard about the land, each on its own little patch of ground, which is cultivated in the warm weather. The people are courteous and philosophical; you rarely find an islander excited or disturbed. They take life with the easy stoicism of men and women who live very close to nature. The sea and the wind and the cold—from these and in the midst of these they wrest their simple living, and along with it they get equanimity that nothing can shake.

CHAPTER I The First Arrivals

The great house on the hill basked in the springtime peace and calm like a stout woman placid in the security of millions. Reuben Rubenstein, on his knees near the wide marble steps, tinkering with the hard-used lawn-mower, heard the distant puffing of an automobile and glanced up. Down the slope of vivid well-kept lawn, between the shrubs and century-old trees, he could see the stately gateway, the majestic white pillars and the Appleys' coat-of-arms on a massive bronze shield set in the iron palings. As he looked, the gates swung open and a limousine turned in and took the steep driveway to the house.

"There's the first," giggled the stable-boy, who, passing with the wheel-barrow, paused a moment to watch appreciatively the quiet approach of the great red car. "Honest men's oppressors," exclaimed Reuben, as frankly disgusted with the idle rich, as he was Jew. "What right have they to that money they spend while we who make it have none?"

The stable-boy shrugged, unimpressed with the woes of labor. "They stole it, we didn't have the sense," he explained cheerfully. "Be good, and if you can't be good, be rich." "You're wrong," jeered Reuben, his thin, keen boyish face flushed, his eyes blazing. "Be rich, and if you can't be rich, be damned, that's their motto."

The head gardener glanced down from the terrace at his fourth assistant. "Got a grouch on?" he asked kindly.

"It ain't a grouch," returned Reuben hotly. "It's honest indignation. Look at them with millions more than they can spend, and when the old man dies, they get forty millions more."

"Don't be peeved about it none," advised the stable-boy, picking up the wheel-barrow and disappearing round the house, followed by the head gardener.

Reuben Rubenstein spat derisively and watched the great car as it drew nearer and finally stopped at the steps, not two feet from him. A liveried footman leaped down, opened the door and stood rigidly to one side. Reuben, scornful to act the menial and not daring to raise his eyes to those above him, sat back on his heels and stared rather insolently.

A girl stepped out, a young pretty slip of a girl, with a sweet face, the latest slouch and the last cry in automobile coats. Her eyes were gray and soft and good-natured, her mouth was full and a trifle pouting, and she had practically no chin at all. She stepped aside on the lawn and glanced curiously around. Appraising the value of the place, thought Reuben in pleasureable scorn.

A tall young man alighted and started at once up the terrace steps. Suddenly realizing that he was alone he paused and glanced back at the girl. He was tall and thin, with a pleasant face. He wore glasses, his narrow mouth was gentle instead of weak and his nose, upturned and unexpectedly small for the rest of his face, lent an air of boyishness to his mild expression. Ricky Crane was, as his wife was wont to say, "cute."

"Coming, dear?" he asked, as the footman shut the car door and the machine rolled away. Something in the unblinking scrutiny of the fourth assistant gardener, still on his knees by the disabled lawn-mower, drew Ricky's attention, and even as he spoke, he glanced down into the upturned face of Reuben Rubenstein. He was an agreeable young fellow and he felt called on to say something before this unswerving gaze of a brother man.

"Ah, howdy-do," said he. Reuben grunted, refusing to touch his hat.

The girl had turned and observed this new and interesting lack of deference. She glanced at her husband and her full sweet mouth dimpled. Ricky stared a moment in mild surprise and then spoke again to his wife.

"Coming, Nel?" She nodded and followed him up the marble steps, across the marble terrace, and under the gaily colored awning to the front door. "Ricky," said she, touching her husband's arm, and slightly nodding backward where Reuben, still on his knees, stared after them. "Ricky, I do believe he's an anarchist." "He's a Jew, my dear," said Ricky, peering through the screen door into the darkened hall. "I hope we aren't the first to come."

"We probably are," said Nel. "I would be just our luck." "I didn't want to come at all," said Ricky plaintively. "It's so damned embarrassing to have all us relatives coming as fast as we can and the old lady dying. What do you suppose she wants to see us for? It can't be to say good-by. No one things she's dying until she's dead." "Wants to see to whom to leave her money," returned Nel, peering, in her turn, into the hall. "She has forty millions, Ricky." "Sounds good to me," said Ricky. "But what does she want to see us for? Is she going to leave it to the best-looking?" "I hope not! I would hate to miss it." "You're no homelier than the others," encouraged Ricky. She pinched him and dropped

ROBBING CLEARING OF ITS TERRORS

"Clearing a farm in Northern Wisconsin is not the enormous task today that it was for the earlier settler. Live stock, explosives and land clearing machinery are now saving the backs of the farmers and making it possible to clear in a few years, an area which would have taken a farmer of the previous generation a life time." Carl D. Livingston of the Land Clearing Division of the University of Wisconsin made that statement at the close of a series of land clearing demonstrations and experiments.

"Dynamite is a very great aid in many land clearing operations. Of course when purchased in small lots it is rather expensive but when a community gets together to buy it in car load a great saving can be effected.

"There are now on the market many reliable grades of stump pullers which show real merit. These are not expensive and with reasonable care they will last until the farm is cleared. These can be used alone or a faster and better way is first to crack the stump with small charges of dynamite and then pull the shattered pieces. This leaves the soil in better condition and makes more easy the destruction of the stump.

"Land clearing, while not easy, is certainly robed of most of the horrors it once held for the settler and farmer of the lake states."

"WB" HAS BIGGEST OPENING IN TEN YEARS

The Wisconsin Business University opened its fall term with the finest attendance in the past ten years, and one of the largest opening attendance in its entire history.

The prospects now are that the school will have to again secure more room and additional teachers to take care of the students who will be here this year.

The school during the summer was entirely remodeled and redecorated and presents a most pleasing and wholesome appearance. It is organized to the last detail, everything is in an exact place, every piece of equipment and apparatus in the best place for efficiency, and as clean and fine running as care and intelligent use can make things.

The institution has the strongest faculty of any time during its entire twenty-five years active work in La Crosse. Mr. Toland has surrounded himself with no less than experts in every department. Months were spent in selecting the new teachers, among them being graduates of many of the great universities, lawyers and professional men. Authors and publishers of text books sought to get the most accomplished exponents of their systems for the "WB." In every subject taught in this school there is an expert, and each system is the leading one of its kind in the United States. Only the best and most approved was taken; methods that had met the demands of the highest grade business firms in the world.

The school has a fine class of young people this year and will surely turn out an exceptional class of successful graduates for high grade positions the coming year.

The good time feature of the school will soon be started, and these are some of the things that give "WB" more of a college spirit than anything else. Many social things are planned for the entire year.

WOMEN'S STOMACH TROUBLES

The Great Woman's Medicine Often Just What Is Needed.

We are so used to thinking of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a remedy exclusively for female ills that we are apt to overlook the fact that it is one of the best remedies for disorders of the stomach.

For stomach trouble of women it is especially adapted, as it works in complete harmony with the female organism, since it contains the extracts of the best tonic roots and herbs. It tones up the digestive system, and increases the appetite and strength. Here is what one woman writes showing what this medicine does:—

Newfield, N. Y.—"I am so pleased to say I can recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as an economical and beneficial remedy in most ailments pertaining to women. At least I found it so by only taking two bottles. I had indigestion in a bad form and I am now feeling in the best of health and owe it all to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. BURR WILLIAMS, R.D. No. 29, Newfield, N. Y.

Many women suffer from that "all gone feeling," and "feel so faint," while doing their work. Ten chances to one their digestive system is all out of order. A tablespoonful of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after each meal should completely remedy this condition in a few days.

WAR PUTS ITALY ON HER OWN FEET COMMERCIALLY

Nation Divorced from Domination of Germany in Her Trade and Industry

ROME.—(By Mail).—Italy, eighteen months ago was commercially and industrially bound hand and foot to Germany. War unloosed the bonds. With the help of English finances, Italy today is working out her own commercial salvation.

When war began in 1914, millions of dollars in German money suddenly were withdrawn from Italian enterprises and the tourist trade, Italy's chief source of wealth, stopped. A national moratorium became necessary. The bank of Italy and other patriotic institutions saved the country from bankruptcy.

Readjustment was in progress when war between Italy and Austria was declared. A general war tax levy was prepared. Even the household piano did not escape. On all checks and receipts, a recent levy of two cents up has been placed.

With munition factories, Italy became dotted. They were a preparation for war and its aftermath, for they are so put up they may be converted into factories of peace. An arms factory, near Naples, will become a dye works. Other plants will become machine shops. New Italy dreams of real industrial greatness within ten years.

The sudden elimination of German imports threw a financial burden on the Italian people. Many things increased in price, but the advances served to bring out the inventive genius of the Latin race. Drugs, clothes and other products looked on as exclusively German, began to be made at home.

Nothing better illustrates Germany's industrial invasion of Italy than its manufacture of typically Italian goods. For centuries the Romans and Florentines have been artists in hand made mosaic floors and ceilings and dress ornaments. The Germans invented machines for such manufacture at home. German-made mosaics for years have been sold in Italy far more cheaply than the Italian product could be.

Government Encourages The government is encouraging Italian industry. Associations to make Italians own Italy, are everywhere. "Italy first" is the new motto. Recently all the Italian traveling men organized into one big association.

The cost of water power has decreased during the war. Electricity for manufacturing purposes has gone down. Having no coal now is working an electrical revolution in Italy. Electricity even for the domestic heating, lighting and cooking seems certain.

Italy's domestic life has been much affected by the conflict, especially in the smaller villages of the north and south. At first, speculation in necessities was prevalent. Unnecessary suffering was occasioned by get-rich-quick dealers and producers. Municipalities have done much to stop such abuses. Municipal shops have been everywhere. These sell necessities generally at the prices which obtained before the war. First service and preference are given to the poorer classes.

Prices Go Up In the municipally owned stores milk sells for eight cents a pint. Private dealers ask ten cents. Municipal brook and the private stock cost about the same amount. The common or war variety is sold at four cents a pound, while the luxury kind brings six cents a pound. The bread is all of a brownish, puffy sort, in which water is generally used. White flour is allowed only in the making of cake.

Meats are especially high. A pound of the best beef costs thirty-six cents in the municipal stores, and fifty cents in the private places. Except in the case of milk the municipal supplies are always inferior to the private.

Practically all cooking is now done by gas. Coal has become the rarest luxury. Anthracite, which before the war brought $15 a ton, now sells for $10. Even coke has jumped from $9 to $22 a ton.

Wearing apparel also has increased in cost. The price of dresses for women and suits for men are at least twenty per cent higher now than before the war.

The rich generally have been the hardest hit, especially those with holdings in Austria and Germany. In many instances war has robbed them of at least half their fortunes. Automobiles have had to be given up and servants reduced in numbers. Even hands that had never known work suddenly have had to toil.

A middle class family of six, living on $2 a day before the war, now must spend about $3. This expenditure will provide daily supplies of wine and vegetables and meat once a day. Clothing absolutely necessary generally is reckoned in this outlay, but house rental usually is not.

In many ways the poor have suffered materially the least by the war. The beggars are the single exception. Their suffering is pathetic. They have been accustomed to look mostly to the traveling public for alms, but now no traveling public touches Italy.

The poor, however, generally are in good spirits. They live for the most part on wine and vegetables, which have increased little or not at all in price. Moreover, the effect of the absence of fathers, husbands and sons at the front is partly counter-balanced by the wartime work of the women and children at home. Civic and military organizations pay them unusually well for making clothing and other articles, necessary for the soldiers in the field.

One ton of coniferous wood waste will produce from 15 to 25 gallons of 190-proof alcohol.

BRITISH UNABLE TO GET ENOUGH GASOLINE

LONDON, Sept. 22.—If American motorists feel troubled over the cost of gas for their buzz carts, let them listen to the Britishers' troubles and rejoice at their own good fortune. The British private motor car owner is unable to get the gas he wants at any price. When German submarines began torpedoing the oil tank ships from the United States, the American oil men quit shipping it. Consequently gasoline is so scarce in England that it is given out by card to car owners in very limited quantities.

Not only is the private motor car owner compelled to present his oil card whenever he wants to run his machine a few miles, but the little gas he gets is begrudged him. Many a motor car is in its garage until after the war on this account.

The government has allowed 60 per cent of the amount of gas demanded by commercial car owners, 50 per cent of that asked for taxis, 25 per cent of the private car owners' demand 2 gallons a month for motorcycles.

All evidences point to the doom of private motoring until after the war. And the private motor car owner blames the submarines and the American oil shipper.

It keeps some women so busy trying to preserve their beauty that they have no time for anything else.

The Doctor's Advice

tural gloss and color to the hair."

Answer: The best hair tonic I know of and one I have recommended in my practice several years to stop dandruff, itching scalp and promote hair growth will be found in the use of plain yellow mineral. Thousands have used it with great success.

"Too Large" writes: "I am much too large. I weigh nearly 185 pounds and would like to reduce about 40 pounds."

Answer: Five-grain arbolone tablets are the most reliable, harmless flesh reducers I have ever used in my practice. They have given satisfaction to scores of my patients.

"Office" writes: "If I don't soon get something to make me strong, build me up and give me a new lease on life and ambition I'll not be able to continue my work. I am overworked, feel weary, and work and play are irksome. I'm nervous and have a kind of drawing pain at the base of my brain. I am restless and unrefreshed after a night's sleep."

Answer: Your condition appears to be due to overwork, worry, excesses, dissipation or some other cause. You need a powerful stimulating tonic and builder. Your system is run down and wants new vigor and nerve-force. Three-grain cadomene tablets are just what you require to give the proper vim, spring and life to your entire system and makes your mind clear and active.

"Slender" writes: "I'm so slender my clothes 'just hang on.' I should weigh for my height 25 pounds more."

Answer: To become stout and have a well-rounded figure I recommend the use of three-grain hypo-nutrient tablets. They are the most wonderful flesh producers I could suggest.

"Parber" asks: "Please tell me if there is anything I may use to rid the scalp of dandruff, stop falling hair, itching scalp and promote a na-

PEACE IMPOSED BY ENTENTE ONLY ONE FOR FRANCE

Nation Crystallized Behind the President for Successful Termination of the War

PARIS.—(By Mail).—France is open to the consideration of a peace imposed by herself and her allies. None other.

Within the last three months, or the last quarter of the first two years of the war, France four times officially has said so.

A formal declaration by her president, a formal statement by her prime minister, a spontaneous outburst in her Chamber of Deputies and a great manifestation by the French people themselves all have said this and France closed the second year of the war with an absolutely solid front for a peace for all time to come.

May 14 at Nancy, President Poincaré delivered perhaps the most remarkable address that ever fell from the lips of a French president. It crystallized the sentiments of the French on peace.

"We do not want our enemies to offer us peace," he declared, "but we want them to demand it of us. We do not want to accept the conditions they have to offer; we want to impose on them our own. We do not want a peace that will leave Imperial Germany mistress to recommence the war when she chooses; we want a peace based on restored right with serious guarantees of equilibrium and stability. And until that peace is assured, until our enemies recognize themselves defeated, we will never cease to fight."

The French press without a dissenting voice upheld these words. Prime Minister Briand within a week publicly confirmed the position of M. Poincaré as that of the French government itself.

In refusing to accept the olive branch of diplomacy as a means of settling the war France did not fear that in diplomatic negotiations with Germany she might be worsted. She is willing to let her victory in the Agadir case stand as a witness to her diplomatic superiority. Germany refused to accept the olive branch. She insisted upon war and France insists that Germany must finish with war.

Following these declarations there came within a week a spontaneous outburst in the French chamber as still further affirmation that France does not want even to discuss a negotiable peace.

Interloper Rooted Down
M. Hatting-Dugens, socialist member had just returned from Kien-chen, Switzerland, where in a private capacity he had attended the second international socialist conference to bring about peace. Rising, he demanded the right to speak on "certain discourses pronounced recently in the name of France, some of which were not calculated to bring about peace. The two blocks of nations that have rushed at each other's throats."

He got no further. The chamber to a man rose in a storm of protest. It was long before President Doumergue could make himself heard. "I am astonished," he finally managed to cry out, "that any Frenchman could even intimate that the provocation for the present war did not come solely from the side of Germany." M. Hatting-Dugens apologized and the only change ever offered to the French chamber to discuss peace was buried.

The people themselves followed quickly, within a week, with one of those manifestations that mark epochs in the life of nations. Before the present war France was not united on the question of preparedness. If a regiment of troops passed it was certain someone would applaud and cry "Vive l'armée" and that someone else would shout "Vive la Paix." Noisy groups would form and riots were likely to follow.

Great Military Display
On June 1, in honor of her dead general, Gallieni, Paris witnessed the first great military display that has taken place since the war began. Ascension day is one of the great national holidays of France. Representatives of all France lined the streets through which the funeral cortege passed.

Ordinarily people do not applaud at funerals. But the French, waiting until the body of Gallieni had passed, applauded and cheered the troops representing every branch of the French army.

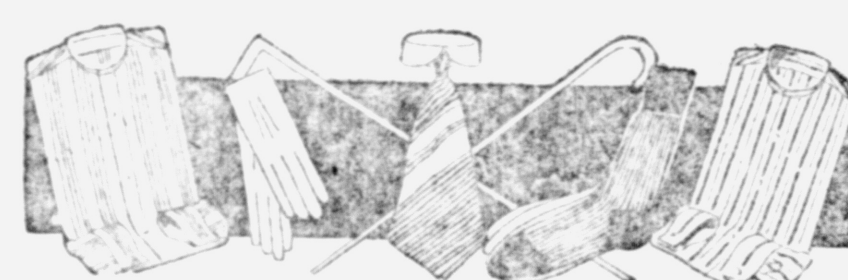

A quiet handclapping began at sight of the troops. It grew louder and more prolonged until it extended down the lines of thousands upon thousands of people from the Invalides to the Gare de Lyons. It continued until after there was not a soldier in sight. There was not one note of opposition.

Among the thousands of applauders there were hundreds of women wearing small bunches of violets, women whose mourning garments showed they had lost a son, a father, a brother or a sweetheart in the war. Many of them had spent almost their last money to purchase the emblematic flowers.

The violets had been intended for Gallieni, but when the cortege began moving, these women suddenly saw broader and larger. They saw in the death of Gallieni the man who had merely saved Paris, while in the troops that followed they saw what must ultimately save all France. And as of by some sudden, subtle instinct the hands raised to shower the violets on the bier of Gallieni were stayed and the flowers fell instead on the troops as they passed.

It was the final solemn manifestation of the people of France that the voice of their president, the voice of their premier, the voice of their chamber of deputies, had been also their voice and that France wants a continuation of the war until the peace that she and her allies desire can definitely be imposed.

WESTERN TOURIST SEASON A RECORD ONE FOR NATION

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—Americans are seeking America first and the western tourist season now drawing to a close has broken all records. "The many millions spent yearly in traveling to European countries, are being spent right here in our America," said L. M. Allen, passenger and traffic manager of the Rock Island railway. "The tourist travel throughout the west is heavier than at any time in our history."

The building of new roads in the Rockies is drawing the traveling public to see the beauty of their own country this year. The people of this country will in the future travel through the United States more than foreign countries.

Owing to the infantile paralysis, the eastern roads have not benefited by the American first movement as much as the western lines, according to officials of the Baltimore & Ohio and the New York Central.

The great Chicago getaways have been jammed for days with returning tourists, and at times the crush has been so great that baggage transfers have been delayed.

Chicago railway officials said that fares would not be available until November, but they would show the greatest tourist movement in the history of the nation, not excepting the "Expo" exposition movement.

HOW TO BE SLIM

If you are too fat and want to reduce your weight 15 or 20 pounds, don't starve and weaken your system, or think you must always be lunched at on account of your fat, but go to City Book and Drug Store, 500 Main street, Columbia Pharmacy, 123 South Fourth street, and get a box of Oil of Korean capsules, take one after each meal and one before retiring at night.

Weigh yourself once a week and note what a pleasant and reliable method this is for removing superfluous fat from any part of the body. It costs little, is absolutely harmless, and a week's trial should convince anyone that it is unnecessary to be bothered with even a single pound of unsightly fat.

UNIVERSITY TELLS PROPER RATE OF FEEDING SILAGE

Wisconsin farmers who have just built "watch towers of prosperity," (silos) may desire to know about how much silage must be removed daily during the winter in order to prevent it from spoiling.

In silo "arithmetic" the height of the silo stands in close relationship to the feeding period. Its diameter is ranged by the number and kind of animals that may be fed from it. The silo should be of such diameter that from an inch and a half to two inches of its entire surface depth in silage should be removed daily. In summer feeding, of course, decidedly more should be removed than in winter. During the winter, if the silage is well packed, somewhat smaller amounts may be removed without danger of spoiling.

To use at least two inches of the silage each day, the amounts indicated in the following table compiled by F. B. Morrison and Former Dean W. A. Henry of the college of agriculture, University of Wisconsin, should be fed from silos of various diameters:

Silo Diameter.	Minimum of Silage Removed	Sufficient for
10 feet	329 pounds	13 cows
11 feet	625 pounds	16 cows
12 feet	745 pounds	19 cows
14 feet	1,015 pounds	25 cows
16 feet	1,325 pounds	32 cows
18 feet	1,680 pounds	42 cows
20 feet	2,075 pounds	52 cows

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed with Sulphur It Darkens so Naturally Nobody can Tell.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft luster and appearance of abundance which is so attractive. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

SAY LUSITANIA LIMIT $91,000

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—The Cunard Steamship company filed in the federal court its claim of liabilities in connection with the proceedings growing out of the loss of life and property in the sinking of the Lusitania. Suits filed against the company aggregate $7,882,000. Attorneys claim that under the American law their liability is limited to $91,000.

advised that she will share in the estate of her great great grandfather, Patrick O'Brien, a wealthy Irish land holder. Between $15,000,000 and $20,000,000 is deposited in San Francisco banks and will be paid to O'Brien's heirs, who are few in number Mrs. Salice said. She estimated that her share would be approximately $3,000,000.

GREAT FLOOD IN CHINA MAKES MILLION HOMELESS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—Nearly 1,000,000 persons have been made homeless by one of the greatest floods on record in that section of China where the American Red Cross already has spent $600,000 for flood protection and where the $30,000,000 for loan for reclamation work, which was postponed by the war, was to have been spent.

Reports to the state department from the American consul at Nanking said the Hwai River had inundated an area of about 7,000 square miles in Anhui province. Appeals for aid have been sent out for the homeless, who virtually are entirely dependent on charity, as all the autumn crops were destroyed.

ELEVATOR BURNS AT LAPORTE

LAPORTE, Ind., Sept. 22.—Fire on Wednesday destroyed the grain elevator of McKenney, Rodgers & Co. of Chicago, located at Wellsboro, in this county. The estimated loss is $150,000.

THEATER OPENING WAS EVERYBODY'S "HEART'S DESIRE"

Fiske O'Hara Won a Great Audience and Declared the New Theater Best on His Trip

"Heart's Desire" is well named, for Fiske O'Hara's new play is all that the heart could desire. It was presented to a packed house at La Crosse theater last night. Much standing room was occupied, and many patrons were turned away. The out-of-town attendance was large.

"Heart's Desire," from start to finish, is new and fresh and clever, and Mr. O'Hara carries an able caste. The scenery was most attractive, and the orchestra won the approval of the audience.

Of course Mr. O'Hara's singing captured the place of leading interest. His new songs of which "Molly Mine" is most popular won the plaudits of a delighted audience and responding to calls from patrons he sang a number of his former "hits" between acts.

A request that he sing "My Wild Irish Rose" got a ring out of Mr. O'Hara. "I guess you are confusing me with our old friend Chauncy," he said, amid laughter.

"The neatest and prettiest little theater this side of New York," was Mr. O'Hara's endorsement of the new La Crosse theater, a professional opinion which Manager Koppeltberger interpreted to mean that the La Crosse house has won back the favor of the players to whom, for several years, it has been an abomination.

TRENT THROUGH AT GREEN BAY BUT NOT YET DUE IN CITY

GREEN BAY, Wis., Sept. 22.—

Albert J. Goodgen, electrical engineer of Indianapolis, Saturday, succeeded Dean Treat as assistant general manager of the Wisconsin Public Service company. Treat goes to La Crosse as general manager of the Wisconsin Railway, Light and Power company.

At the local offices of the street car company it was said that Mr. Treat is not expected in La Crosse for perhaps a fortnight.

Clement C. Smith, president of the company, is in the city for a try-out of new cars purchased by the company, on which city officials will have a trial trip Friday evening. The occasion is expected to be seized upon as an opportunity to discuss location of proposed new street car lines.

DANIELS TO TRAIL G. O. P.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy, will come to Illinois October 2 to trail Governor Hughes in a four-day speaking tour. Then he will jump to Michigan for a six-day tour to try to counteract the enthusiasm which Colonel Roosevelt hopes to arouse.

COLLIER OUT FOR HUGHES

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—Julius A. Collier, formerly a state senator in Minnesota and a life-long democrat, it is said, will vote for Hughes in November, according to a statement made at republican western headquarters here Thursday where Collier is a caller.

Miss Tillie Helgeson has her ring again. Her replevin action against Mrs. Elizabeth Jenks and the latter's attorney, J. E. Higbee, was dismissed when it was due for trial before Judge C. W. Hunt Friday afternoon.

E. H. Hartwell, attorney for Miss Helgeson, announced that the defense had turned over the diamond.

The complaint which began the replevin action set forth that Miss Helgeson let Louis Jenks wear the ring, that he took it to be reset, that he gave Miss Helgeson a letter authorizing her to claim it from the jeweler, that his wife found a copy of the letter, and that Mrs. Jenks claimed the stone.

Wisconsin, already famous for its barley production, has, according to conservative estimates, again outdone all former records.

"We shall undoubtedly find that we have the largest crop of barley ever harvested in Wisconsin this year," said R. A. Moore, when recently interviewed at his office at the agricultural experiment station. "This is due in part to a larger acreage, but even more to the favorable weather we have had and the high class seed which was sowed."

Threshing tests reported to officials of the agricultural experiment association show the best average acre yields yet obtained in the state. The state average in 1915 was 35.5 bushels and in 1914, 27 bushels an acre. Based on the bright returns from this year's crop, authorities predict an acre yield average for 1916 of at least 40 bushels.

Wisconsin grows fully one-eighth of the barley raised in the whole country, and ranks third in the roll of states in total production.

CRACK PACER IS RUINED BY BUMP IN MANKATO YARD

Peter Chimes, well known pacing race-horse who has been winning steadily this year, has probably paced his last race, and his driver, Harry Palmer, well known in La Crosse, is badly bruised, as the result of a railway accident recently.

Palmer was riding in a horse car with Peter Chimes. The car was waiting on a siding in the Mankato yards of the Omaha road Saturday when a string of freight cars, which were being switched bumped into Palmer's car. The horse was thrown to the floor and Palmer was hurled against the side of the car, his head was bruised and he sustained several bruises on the legs and body.

Palmer arrived in La Crosse on Friday morning walking with a decided limp, and with the news that Peter Chimes is probably out of the running for good. He will ask the railroad for a settlement for the damage.

KIDNAPED GRIDIRON START ESCAPES AND COMES TO NORMAL

Hoosier State Champion Hurdler Vanishes from Wabash College

One of the most interesting tales in the history of athletics at the normal came to light this morning with the appearance of one Fagin Jefferson high school athlete star of La Fayette Ind. Fagin, so he says, holds the Indiana state record for the 220 yard hurdles as well as that in the 220 yard dash. Besides this, he was an all-state basketball champ and incidentally, plays a little football now and then. He will report with the normal players, gay as an escaped prisoner. Indeed, according to Fagin's story, that is exactly his status.

Fagin's home is in the vicinity of Wabash college which connected with the local team in basketball in Crawfordsville, Ind., last year. The Wabash coach thought this man Fagin would be a pretty valuable addition to his athletic conquests. Accordingly he informed Fagin that he would attend Wabash college this fall and would naturally become a member of the various athletic organizations.

For some reason or other the Wabash coach fellow neglected to consider the feelings of Fagin on the matter. Fagin had long since decided to come to the La Crosse normal and become a "physical ed." A conflict was the natural thing in order.

"You'll come," said the Wabash coach.

"I won't," said Fagin.

And there they were. Mysteriously, Fagin started in at the college with the opening of school. He even reported at the first call of football men, as an account in an Indiana paper indicates. The paper states that Fagin was kidnapped from a Wisconsin normal school.

But Fagin, kidnaped, was low in his mind. He wanted to come to La Crosse normal and like the infant in the soap ad, he wouldn't be happy until he got it.

When Fagin noticed that his crafty guards weren't looking, he threw his socks into his little trunk, bought a ticket for La Crosse, Wisconsin, and on Friday was running around the normal field with the local team. He was placed in the backfield temporarily, although football is his minor sport. So says Mr. Fagin. He played end on the Jefferson high school eleven.

Fagin's appearance was contemporary with that of "Shorty" Grounds, a sub-half on last year's team whose appearance will bolster up Spauld's men considerably.

INDICTMENT ASKED FOR ALLEGED SLAYER OF OLD WOMEN LEFT IN CARE

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 22.—

Indictment of Mrs. Amy E. Archer-Gilligan on the charge of killing five old persons entrusted to her care, was asked by Prosecutor Hugh M. Ahearn at the opening of a grand jury investigation here Thursday.

The death of Mrs. Maude Lynch was the first investigated.

The prediction is made in Hartford that if Mrs. Gilligan is indicted she will never be tried on the murder charge, but will be found insane and committed to an asylum for life.

Mrs. Archer-Gilligan was arrested last May. It was charged that she induced relatives of aged persons to send them to the home she conducted. It was alleged that she deliberately set about poisoning her aged charges.

BOSTON SEES CLEAR SUPERBAS WIN AS SAILING TO TITLE BOSTON AND PHILS WHEN TIGERS FAIL FALL BY WAYSIDE

Jennings Uses Four Moundmen But to No Avail; Chicago Succumbs to Mack-men

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 22.—Boston made a clean sweep of the series with Detroit, winning Thursday's game, 10 to 2. Jennings used four pitchers, but none of them were effective except Dubuc, who pitched only the last inning.

The result of the series assures Boston the American league pennant, apparently, as they have only one more series to play before the last seven games at home.

Walker hit a home run in the first inning with one man on base. In the fourth he tripled, scoring Ruth and Janvin, who had been passed. Hits in the fourth inning by Crawford, Hellman and Stanage enabled Detroit to score two runs. Local mid-week attendance records were broken by the series. The score: R H E Boston . . . 211300210—10 13 2 Detroit . . . 000200000—2 7 1

Batteries: Ruth and Thomas; Coveleskie, Boland, Cunningham, Dubuc and Stanage.

SWAIT LEAGUE FINISHES BEFORE SETTING PLANS FOR WORLD'S SERIES

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Sept. 22.—Chairman Herrmann of the national baseball commission said Thursday the commission would wait until the pennant winners of the two major leagues had been determined before the commission would make any definite plans regarding the world series arrangements. All clubs that have a chance for the pennant have the commission's permission to accept money for series tickets, always with the proviso that the money will be returned if the team accepting it does not win.

The commissioners have informally discussed dates with a view to the different combinations possible under present conditions. But as far as official action is concerned nothing has been done or will be until the race has been decided.

Speaker Makes 200th Safe Hit

Tris Speaker, Cleveland outfielder, who is leading the American league hitters, has made his two hundredth safe hit. He made it Thursday in the game with Washington, when he hit safely four times out of six trips to the plate. Ty Cobb made 208 hits last year to lead the league with an average of .370. Speaker's average today is .387.

BOSTON APPARENTLY NELSONS CONFIDENT, ONE BEST BET FOR ATHLETES HOPEFUL, A. L. CHAMPIONSHIP FOR SECOND GAME

Baseball fans of the city expect one of the greatest diamond fights of the season Sunday when the Nelson Clothing company and W. B. U. Athletes meet at league park in the second game of the city championship series.

The Nelsons, with the win of last Sunday to their credit, are confident of putting over the knockout punch to the Athletes. The Athletes, on the other hand, point to the defeat of last Sunday as undeserved and are out to recoup lost fortunes. Copey, they point out, was in poor form, walking seven men. The Ferrville hurler, they say, will put up a different class of service in the second game. With Squires waiting to go on the mound they figure their chances are not altogether as dim as pictured after the Sunday mix.

Ritter, who turned the trick for the Nelsons, says he is ready again to take the mound, while King, who has worked a successful game throughout the season, may be the choice of Manager Roth for the second battle.

Chicago stands two games and a half behind now. If they win every one of their remaining eight games, four with Cleveland and four with New York, the Red Sox will have to win eight of their eleven remaining games to cop.

Brooklyn has had a harder struggle ahead. The Dodgers have fourteen games left on their schedule, one Friday with St. Louis, six with Chicago, beginning Saturday, three with Philadelphia and four with New York.

Thirteen games remain on the Philly program and they are pretty stiff tussles. One game remains in the present series with Pittsburgh, four with Cincinnati, three with Brooklyn and then the finish against Boston.

K. C.'S TO MEET TO REORGANIZE BOWLING LEAGUE

Reorganization of the Knights of Columbus Bowling league, which went through a successful season last year, is expected to be made at a meeting called for Friday night in the basement of St. Joseph's school on upper Jay street.

Last season the league consisted of six teams, the Hennepin, La Sallees, Marquettes, De Sotos, Magellans and Balboas. At least ten teams, it is predicted, will get in line for the 1916-1917 season.

JOHN WILLIAMS RE-NAMED HEAD OF TEN PIN BODY

John Williams was re-elected president of the La Crosse Ten Pin association at a recent meeting of the local bowling organization. John Koblitz was elected secretary to succeed himself. Ferdinand Roth was named treasurer.

Plans for a ten-pin league have been laid, according to Mr. Williams Friday. Teams are in process of formation now, he said, and will be ready for play when the schedule opens October 2. The league was comprised of eight clubs last season. The schedule is being made out at the present time. Bowling will continue, it is believed, into the second week in April.

RESIDENT OF CITY HALF A CENTURY DIES AT AGE OF 82

Mrs. Dorothea Uhler, 607 La Crosse street, a resident of La Crosse for almost sixty years, died at St. Francis hospital at 7 o'clock Friday morning from a complication of diseases induced by old age. Mrs. Uhler was eighty-two years old.

She was a native of Switzerland and came to La Crosse when young. Until a few months ago Mrs. Uhler had been active, living by herself in a small cottage on La Crosse street. Ten weeks ago she was forced to go to the hospital.

Mrs. Uhler is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Leo W. Meyer, 930 La Crosse street, and four grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon from the residence of Mrs. Meyer. Rev. E. Vornholt will officiate. Interment will be made at Oak Grove cemetery.

The bark of black oak, or "yellow oak," as it is often called on account of the color of the inner bark, is now used for dyemaking.

ENGLAND RELEASES TEUTONS AND TURKS TAKEN FROM CHINA

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22. — The thirty-eight Germans, Austrians and Turks who were taken from the American steamer China by a British cruiser some months ago, while en route from Shanghai to the Philippines, have been released, according to a state department dispatch from Sydney, Australia. Their release was the result of a state department protest.

TRANSPORT SUNK IN MEDITERRANEAN BERLIN REPORTS

BERLIN, via Wireless to Sayville, L. I., Sept. 22.—A German submarine sank an enemy transport, completely filled with troops, in the Mediterranean on September 17, it was officially announced Friday. The transport sank within forty-three seconds.

The Berlin statement made no mention of the fate of the soldiers aboard the transport. Accepting the statement that the transport went down in forty-three seconds as true, it appears probable that few if any persons were rescued unless other vessels were in the immediate vicinity.

BREAKS LEG IN TURN TABLE

John Hanna, who lives on the North Salem road, suffered a broken ankle Friday morning when he was caught in the turn table at the Burlington round house at Grand Crossing. He is at the La Crosse hospital.

FURS GO FAST

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 22.—A new record was set in St. Louis' fur auction market Thursday afternoon when 2,000 silver fox skins were sold in less than an hour. The best price in this lot for a single skin was $1,060. The morning sales on silver fox skins amounted to $100,000.

Since the opening of the auction Wednesday, more than a half million dollars worth of skins have been sold. Thursday's bidding was the keenest in history of the market, bids jumping $10 to $15 a call.

A horse is no good until he's well broken but it is different with automobiles.

Attention, Knights of Pythias
All members are requested to be at Castle Hall, Main Street, Saturday, Sept. 23rd., 2 P. M., to attend the funeral of our late Brother George Erickson. Signed. JOE KINDER, C. C.

M'GREGOR FERRY OPERATOR MAKES RECORD TRIP

M'GREGOR, Iowa.—(Special).—Captain George Freeman of McGregor, it is believed, has made the record this season in the transportation of motor touring parties across the Upper Mississippi by ferry. He has already reached nearly the thousand mark and expects to exceed it before the season for navigation closes. Mr. Freeman operates the ferry "Rob Roy" between McGregor and Prairie du Chien and uses a large barge in connection with the boat. He has taken as many as six cars at a trip. Few have been local cars. More than ninety five percent have come from a distance, those from the east reaching the Mississippi over the Milwaukee, Madison and Prairie du Chien highway; those from the west coming over the five different trails now leading into McGregor—the North Iowa Pike from Sioux Falls, S. D., the Burlington Way from St. Louis and Keokuk; the East Iowa Scenic Trail from Clinton; the Geranium Trail from Waterloo and the National Park highway from Ottumwa and Cedar Rapids.

The McGregor and Prairie du Chien crossing is about half way between La Crosse and Dubuque and is so naturally located to attract Northern Iowa and Southern Wisconsin travel. The wealth of scenery and historic interest of the proposed national park near the two towns is also a great drawing card. Capt. Freeman says he has had cars from Los Angeles, Seattle, Oklahoma, New York, Virginia and Ohio.

By coincidence the first ferry on the river here was called the Rob Roy, the name which the present ferry bears. One of the humors of early days was the sign on the hotel at the foot of Main street, McGregor which greeted the settlers as they left the ferry. It read, "Eat, drink and be merry for tomorrow you go to Minnesota."

Mrs. Sawvell Dies
After several years of helplessness the result of extreme age Mrs. Katherine Sawvell died last evening. She was ninety five years old and has lived on a farm near McGregor for sixty-four years.

Mrs. Sawvell was born in Carroll county, Ohio, Jan. 21, 1821. At the age of eighteen she married John Sawvell and on Oct. 27, 1852 with her husband and growing family of children came to McGregor and took up land in Glad township on Pleasant Ridge. Some twenty years ago Mr. Sawvell died and a few years later the widow left the old homestead to make her home with her granddaughter, Mrs. John Knapp on a farm nearby. Of the eight children which were born to Mr. and Mrs. Sawvell four are living: Hiram Sawvell, McGregor; Adam Sawvell, Watson; Mrs. James Denning, Pleasant Ridge; and Mrs. George Sawvell, Jericho, N. D. There are thirty-five grand children and a large number of great grandchildren, the greater part of them living in and around McGregor.

Funeral services will be held at the Pleasant Ridge church Friday at 1 p. m.

"FULL DINNER PAIL" SLOGAN OF DEMOCRATS ATTACKED BY HUGHES

DELPHI, Ind., Sept. 22.—At least 1,000 persons got a new bit of attack on the democrats from Republican Nominee Hughes here Thursday. "As I was going through Lafayette," he said, "I saw a campaign placard which had been put up by our friends on the other side and which bore the statement: 'No idle men. Plenty of work. A full dinner pail.' I thought what an extraordinary tribute to the memories of American voters. How was it in 1914 and the early part of 1915 after the passage of the Underwood bill? Were there then full dinner pails? Why, there were 300,000 unemployed men in the city of New York alone."

RED LIPS AND HEALTH

The first place that anemia, or thin blood, shows is in the lips and gums and the membranes that line the eye lids. You may be naturally pale and still be healthy but when these membranes lose their bright red color your blood is deficient in quantity or color.

Thin blood is a danger. It invites disease. The organisms of the blood fight off disease germs. Thin blood means less power to do this. For instance, when you cut yourself it does not heal so quickly if your blood is thin and weak.

To build up the blood there is one remedy that has been a household word for a generation, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. They tone up the entire system, make the blood rich and red, strengthen the nerves, increase the appetite, put color in the cheeks and lips and drive away that unnatural tired feeling. Plenty of sunlight, good wholesome food and fresh air will do the rest.

Two books, "Building Up the Blood" and "What to Eat and How to Eat" give just the information that every mother of a growing girl needs. They are free. Write for them today to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

AD EXPERT SAYS CITY CAN OBTAIN ALL IT DESIRES

As Many Factories as Wanted Will Come if Right Methods Are Pursued Says H. W. Schl

MUST KEEP AT IT

Reiteration Is What Counts in Salesmanship the Publicity Bureau Is Told

A practical talk on good and bad ways of advertising, with suggestions as to the course to be followed in "putting La Crosse on the map" was given the Chamber of Commerce bureau of publicity and conventions at its headquarters Thursday evening by H. W. Schl, Chicago expert on advertising. Mr. Schl, in a talk full of "pep," declared that the city can get as many factories as it wants, if it will go after them in the right way.

"If you've got money enough," he said, "you can make the whole United States eat, sleep and talk La Crosse. If your appropriation is not large enough, to permit of that kind of a campaign, you've got to confine yourself to literature, or perhaps bulletin board advertising.

Boards Talk to Trains
"Nashville, for instance, had a small appropriation, and they spent it in erecting painted sign-boards where they could be seen by trains passing into New York. They got a whole lot of inquiries from manufacturers, who were looking for a chance to move. Sign boards like that are not expensive. They can be put up for $50 a year each, or something like that.

"They have to be followed up, however, by the literature. All a manufacturer can do is to make inquiry. Then it's up to you to land him and cash in on his aroused interest."

Mr. Schl recommended a chain of follow-up literature to be sent to a prospect over a series of perhaps six months.

"You have to keep at them," he said. "It's just salesmanship. You people have your city to sell. In salesmanship it is reiteration that counts. Most of you know that sometimes a salesman has to call a dozen times before he gets the order. It's the same way in this. You've got to keep on shooting, and they will drop. "It takes honest-to-cripes salesmanship, too. If you've only got money to get out one piece of literature, let it be a dandy. It must be attractive, compelling, or it gets a waste-basket funeral. A lot of it gets that anyway, but we figure that if 95 per cent of literature is waste-basketed, we can live and do business on the five per cent that caught."

Mr. Schl said that a missing factor of importance to "selling La Crosse" is a comprehensive statement of what the city is. He said that he could find no accurate data regarding the city, the aggregate value of manufactured products, the number of factories of various kinds, etc. He urged that this is a prime essential without which it is impossible to start a campaign.

"It's hard to start," he said. "But after you get started it comes easy. Look at Detroit. Look at Racine. Look at Akron, Ohio. They got started in a certain line and now anybody who wants to get into the automobile business heads for Detroit. Anybody who wants to make tires goes to Akron, where all other fellows are."

Mr. Schl emphasized the value of proper banking facilities in persuading manufacturers to locate, and made an interesting plea for making the town pleasant for traveling men.

GREAT MOVEMENT OF LIVESTOCK OVER THE LINES OF MILWAUKEE

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—The movement of live stock over the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway has been quite heavy since early in the spring, said J. G. Love, assistant general freight agent on his return to the city from the middle west. "There is every reason to believe that the movement will continue indefinitely, and that there will be a noticeable increase in the number of cars handled last year."

It is estimated that approximately 60,000 cars of cattle, hogs and sheep were brought into the Chicago market over the Milwaukee lines for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1916. More than 141,000 live stock cars were hauled by Milwaukee locomotives over the entire system for that period.

HUNDRED ATTEND EXCLUSIVELY MALE FEED AT NORMAL

One hundred men of the normal school congregated in the domestic science room last evening in the second annual Dutch feed given by the Men's league. A get-together affair it was to promote the fellowship amongst the old and new students and well did it succeed. Popular girls, led by the new musical director, Prof. Morgan, rousing speeches, wieners and beans capped with an abundance of watermelon, all interspersed with a liberal quantity of informality made the event one of the few of its kind ever held in the school's history. The attendance was even larger than it was at a similar feed last winter. The motto, "Not a Woman In It," was carried out without a hitch. Every bean, every wiener was cooked by masculine hands while the substantial victuals were dished up by a corps of daintily aproned male students presenting a sight to behold.

Musical numbers were given by Cyrus R. Crouse, Donald Clark and Prof. Morgan. Speech makers included speakers from every phase of masculine school activities. Those who talked were: Prof. F. A. Cotton, Dr. C. B. Smith, Harry Grausnick, J. R. Moore, Raymond Keeler and Dr. H. N. Sherwood. W. E. Walker presided.

CAN CITY REFUSE SERVICE BECAUSE IT LACKS CASH?

Queer Angle of Water Situation in Spooner Is Put Up to the State Commission

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 22.—Can a municipal utility refuse service to a taxpayer citizen because it hasn't got money enough to make necessary extensions? This is the question the railroad commission will have to answer in a case started Thursday by the commission itself against the City of Spooner as a water utility. The case grew out of an informal complaint filed with the commission by A. G. Paffel and five other citizens of Spooner. Mr. Paffel alleged in the complaint that he lived in one of the oldest houses in the community; that the water from his pump was contaminated by cess pools; that he is a taxpayer; that he first tried to get city water in 1914, but that he has been put off ever since, and that the mayor turned down his request without the council ever having voted on it on the ground that the price of materials has risen. In his letter to the commission Mayor Frank Hammill referred to Paffel as a kicker, but admitted that there are several hundred people of the city, who are not getting city water, and that in some instances individuals have installed extensions at their own expense. He said that the cess pools do not affect Paffel as badly as some others; that the city realizes the desirability of giving service but has no money and that it is facing a serious question on the sewage problem. He declared that the city is up against the question of getting power and that this prohibits any extension work. Some time ago the city officials took up informally with the commission and attorney general the question of raising funds to build and operate another hydro-electric plant. The city has one water power developed and this runs both electric light and water plant. They wanted to issue mortgage certificates to build the second plant, the cost of which estimated approximately $100,000. Because the leeway between the city's present bonded indebtedness and its potential bonded indebtedness is only $25,000, they were advised that the certificates could not be issued because they would be in effect city bonds. The commission Thursday ordered an investigation and hearing in the case.

HOLD SAWYER CENTENARY
OSHKOSH, Wis., Sept. 22.—Oshkosh recalled Friday as the centennial anniversary of the birth of Philetus Sawyer, a noted pioneer citizen of this city and long a representative of Wisconsin in the United States senate. Senator Sawyer was born in Rutland, Vt., Sept. 22, 1816. In early life he was a blacksmith. He came to Wisconsin in 1850 and engaged in the lumbering business, becoming in time a millionaire. In 1881, after ten years of service in the lower house of congress, he was elected to the United States senate, MOVIE PRODUCERS PREFER CENSORSHIP BY THE U. S.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—The producers' division of the board of directors of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry has gone on record in favor of federal censorship of films. A resolution adopted expressed the feeling of the directors as somewhat reluctant to support any form of censorship, but that if censorship could not be escaped the federal kind was more desirable than a variety of state regulations.

BENSON TO DISSECT HAY-CHAMBERLAIN BILL

TOLEDO, Ohio, Sept. 22.—The Hay-Chamberlain bill is to be laid on the table and dissected, clause by clause, in Allan L. Benson's fight for the presidential chair on the socialist ticket.

The clause in the Hay-Chamberlain bill to which Benson objects gives the president the right to call on the reserve forces in case of need. Technically, it is claimed the "reserve force" includes all able-bodied men between 18 and 45.

GERMANS WOULD RESTORE POPE'S TEMPORAL POWER

LONDON, Sept. 22.—A movement in favor of re-establishment of the temporal power of the pope is reported by an Amsterdam correspondent to have been inaugurated by Roman Catholic newspapers of Germany, with the idea of drawing the vatican wholly away from Italian power.

FARMERS PESSIMISTIC

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 22.—Northwest farmers are bringing this year's wheat crop to town in last year's automobile. The size of the crop permits this even if their car is a flivver, farmers pessimistically say. The fact is that this year's crop is poor, but prices being high, the northwest will not suffer. Northwest farmers won't launch a frenzied automobile buying campaign as last fall.

DRINK HOT WATER BEFORE BREAKFAST

Says you really feel clean, sweet and fresh inside, and are seldom ill.

If you are accustomed to wake up with a coated tongue, foul breath or a dull, dizzy headache; or, if your meals sour and turn into gas and acids, you have a real surprise awaiting you.

To-morrow morning, immediately upon arising, drink a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This is intended to first neutralize and then wash out of your stomach, liver, kidneys and thirty feet of intestines all the indigestible waste, poisons, sour bile and toxins, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal.

Those subject to sick headaches, backache, bilious attacks, constipation or any form of stomach trouble, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store and begin enjoying this morning inside-bath. It is said that men and women who try this become enthusiastic and keep it up daily. It is a splendid health measure for it is more important to keep clean and pure on the inside than on the outside, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing disease, while the bowel pores do.

The principle of bathing inside is not new, as millions of people practice it. Just as hot water and soap cleanse, purify and freshen the skin, so hot water and a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Limestone phosphate is an inexpensive white powder and almost tasteless.

Cloquet Woman Heads Minnesota Federation

ANOKA, Minn., Sept. 22.—Officers of the Minnesota Federation of Women's clubs, chosen at an almost unopposed election today were Mrs. Peter Olson, Cloquet, vice president; Mrs. C. J. Holman, Mankato, recording secretary; Mrs. W. D. Abbott, Winona, treasurer; Mrs. E. J. Lewis, Sauk Center, custodian. Offices of president and corresponding secretary will not be vacant for a year. Mankato was chosen for the next meeting place.

Resolutions asking Governor Burnquist to appoint, through the civil service commission, two members to the state board of visitors, endorsing the work of the Americanization committee of the general federation, working with foreign-born residents and asking singing of the Minnesota state song in every public school in the state on Minnesota day were passed.

The meeting closed last night.

Would Organize Widows' Association

Mrs. Bessie C. Turpin of Omaha, Neb., is the sponsor for an ambitious project to organize the widows of America into a union to be called The Society of American Widows. Most widows are mothers, avers Mrs. Turpin, and when thrown upon the world to support themselves and their children encounter obstacles unknown to the smoother career of the single business woman. The union's platform is a sensible and practical one, relying upon some humane sympathy for the difficulties which beset the bereft wife and her little ones, and here are some of its more salient details:

Obtain from merchants a ten per cent discount on all purchases.

Establish a sewing department, an employment bureau, reading, rest and lunch rooms, and a day nursery in the business districts of all large cities. Build profit sharing apartment houses, including gymnasium, music and assembly rooms, to be occupied by widows and their families at a low rental.

Publish a monthly magazine to deal with widows' problems and arouse interest in the movement in every city.

Imported Gowns are Not Needed any More

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—Fall gowns occupied the attention of leading fashion experts of the country in attendance at the Fashion Art league convention here today.

Designers said the gowns this year are a vast improvement over those of other years. They said it would not be necessary to import French gowns hereafter as the American designers have provided they are just as original in creating new styles as the French.

PRESIDENT'S SPEECH TO TRENTON BUSINESSMEN AROUSES MUCH INTEREST

BY ROBERT J. BENDER

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Sept. 22.—President Wilson will make his first personal appeal for re-election Saturday when he speaks from the veranda of his summer home here to several hundred business men of Trenton.

Tremendous interest among the democratic leaders centers in the first plume of the president into a discussion of the issues Charles E. Hughes has been raising in his tour of the west.

The eight-hour law, which the administration holds out to the country and what it has done toward laying a foundation for meeting the competition to face American trade after the close of the great war, are expected to feature the first of the president's "porch campaign" addresses.

MUST APPLY NOW FOR INSTITUTES

Many towns throughout Wisconsin desire farmers' institutes for the coming winter—for various reasons, all good and valid ones, too.

"Booster communities" working for farmers' institutes in their respective localities are aware that an institute is not allotted to a given place until an application blank has been duly signed by the farmers of the vicinity and returned to the superintendent of farmers' institutes, college of agriculture, Madison.

The final lists for the season's institutes will be nearly completed by the first week in October. This means that all persons having intentions in that direction should "get busy" at once and file their applications with E. L. Luther, superintendent. Application blanks may be had by writing to his office.

THE HASKIN LETTER

INTERNATIONAL BIRD PROTECTION

By Frederic J. Haskin
WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 22.—In a few days there will take place in Washington a conference between the official naturalists of two great governments for the discussion of the best way to protect the birds that migrate from one country to another. C. Gordon Hewitt, entomologist to the Dominion of Canada, has written to the Chief of Biological Survey here, asking for an appointment at which he may learn from our government scientists how they have gone about the enforcement of the federal migratory bird law. For by a treaty recently concluded between the secretary of state and the British ambassador, the Dominion of Canada has agreed to co-operate with the United States in the preservation of migratory birds. This means that the great federal law, which for the first time gave uniform and scientific protection to the birds of a nation, is now to have its jurisdiction extended over the whole of a continent, and from semi-tropical to arctic regions.

The significance of this treaty is scarcely realized except by the government officials and the societies of naturalists and sportsmen who have been working for the preservation of American wild life these many years. The naturalists say that the federal law combined with the treaty has saved the wild fowl of North America, and insured that they will be abundant for generations to come.

The saving of our migratory wild fowl means the saving of an asset which is worth millions of dollars, in sport, food, and in money brought to regions where the shooting is good. It also means the saving of sport for the people at large, because the great American rivers which are the highways of travel for the wild fowl are about the only part of our domain that can not and will not be fenced and converted into game preserves.

The licenses taken out show that there will be over five million sportsmen to take the field this fall. This means that about one man out of every five who is old enough to carry a gun seeks the health giving exercise, the excitement, the adventure and the training of hand and eye and nerve which is to be found in the hunting field. Beyond a doubt, the love of outdoor sport is growing in this country, and along the cleanest and most sportsman-like lines. The old market hunter with his murderous swivel gun has practically disappeared. The light sixteen and twenty gauge weapons, which require the greatest skill and speed on the part of the sportsman, are replacing the ten and twelve gauge shotguns. Everywhere are seen evidences of a sentiment in favor of game protection and game propagation.

But where these five million hunters are going to hunt is becoming more and more of a question. Everywhere farms are posted against hunters; the farmers either want the shooting themselves or else they want to preserve the birds for their value to the crops. Many of the best hunting areas are being converted into great preserves, after the English fashion. The South Atlantic region, from Norfolk to Jacksonville, is now dotted with these shooting estates, most of them owned by clubs, some by individuals. There is no free upland shooting left except in the west, where the mountain and desert have halted the advance of civilization.

But the great rivers of which there are so many in the United States, can not be converted into hunting estates. The navigable waters of America remain free to anyone who can buy or build a boat, and these waters with proper restriction of shooting, are capable of supporting billions of wild fowl. To save the great fleets of wild wings that come down out of the north in the autumn, ending a tangle of excitement through the blood of every hunter, is to save the one sport that promises to remain free for all in the future.

The great importance of the Canadian treaty is that it has saved the breeding grounds of those wild fowl. Most of our wild ducks, and especially the more valuable fresh water species, such as mallard, teal, pintail and gadwall, breed naturally from the middle United States northward to Canada. Audubon's wonderful accounts of American birds as he found them in his day, show that wild ducks then bred many degrees farther south than they do now. The most important factor in driving them farther north was spring shooting. When the ducks began their northern flight in March and April, they met with a hail of lead from the Gulf to the Canadian line and beyond. They could not stop on the lakes of the middle west where they had bred for years. Each season they were driven farther and farther north, until gradually the Saskatchewan country, the lake strewn barrens about Hudson Bay, the Mackenzie river country, and other far, wild places, have been their only refuge. These great wilds of marsh and lake are all that have saved them from destruction long ago. The depleted remnant that escaped the spring fusillade each year raised broods in the far north, and returned to the slaughter in the fall.

Now the federal migratory bird law has cut off the deadly spring volley and thereby has literally accomplished wonders. The number of waterfowl in the country has almost doubled. The president of the Nebraska Agricultural College has written the biological survey that not only ducks, but wild geese—the great gray honkers whose voices you hear from the sky—are again breeding on the Nebraska prairies. He says the old timers say it looks old times.

Similar reports come from all parts of the United States. In the Dakotas ducks are breeding in every little prairie slough and creek, and they are reported from many other regions where a duck has not been seen in the summer for years. Furthermore, and most important of all, the people have been converted to the law; they have seen its value. A large organization which raised a large sum of money to have it changed seems to have evaporated. Many men that opposed it have written to the biological survey to say that it is the wisest piece of conservation legislation on the books.

But without the Canadian treaty, this law would have been incomplete. The wilds of Canada and Alaska are bound to remain the great breeding ground of American wild fowl—the chief source of our game supply. If Canada had not agreed with us in this matter of protection, the ducks would have again been at the mercy of the hunters as soon as they crossed the line. Sportsmen would have gone from the United States to Canada for their spring shooting, and with the growth of population the ducks and geese would have reached their summer home in smaller numbers every year. By the Canadian treaty, the way is opened for them to travel unmolested from the Gulf to the Arctic Circle, inside of which some of the hardy sea ducks breed.

By the treaty, Canada agrees upon practically the same closed seasons for ducks, geese, swans, brant, rail, cranes and shore birds that the government officers have established in this country. She also agrees to the protection at all times of the migratory insectivorous birds and to a continuous closed season on curlew, swan, wild pigeon and other species threatened with extermination.

The only exceptions made by the Canadian government are that Eskimos and other Indians may take auks, auklets, guillemots, murres, puffins and other seabirds and their eggs, for food, but not for sale. These provisions are necessary because some of the far northern tribes are absolutely dependent upon colonies of seabirds for a living.

BOARDMAN AND HOLWAY TO GO TO AUSTIN TO REVIEW BADGER TROOPS
MADISON, Wis., Sept. 21.—Adjutant General Orlando Holway and General Charles Boardman, Oskosh, will go to Austin, Texas, on Friday to review the troops of the Wisconsin brigade, now on march from San Antonio to the Lone Star state capital. General Boardman will go as the special representative of Governor Philipp, who had planned to go, but will not be able to make connections.

General Holway has made all arrangements to ship winter equipment including heavy clothing, overcoats, tent stoves and other materials to the Wisconsin soldiers, if he receives orders to do so.

It's just as important to watch your windings as it is to wind your watch.

SPECIAL FOR FAIR WEEK

I will refund $2.00 on every $10 Cash Purchase Here during Fair Week.

MISSIONFEST HELD BY LUTHERANS AT BANGOR SUNDAY

BANGOR, Wis.—(Special.)—The German Lutherans held their annual missionfest Sunday at St. Paul's church. A number of people from Burr Oak and West Salem were present. Rev. Papp of Ahlman, Wis., delivered the sermons in the morning and evening. The Rev. A. Bergman from Rolling Stone, Minn., spoke in the afternoon.

Missionary speaks
Rev. Donahue of Portage, Wis., Sunday school missionary, delivered the sermon at the Presbyterian church in the morning, and at the Baptist church in the evening.

Local and Personal

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Kneen, Mrs. Winnifred Bodmer and Neil Bodmer were La Crosse visitors Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Preston, Rev. McCrary and Jabez Streeton motored to Sparta Monday afternoon.

James Keizer and family and Mrs. Lester Keizer of La Crosse, called at the Clark Bradley home Sunday.

George Foster was a La Crosse visitor Tuesday evening.

It may not make a young man happy when a girl returns his love and certainly not when it is returned because she has no use for it.

SPARTA AND TOMAH EQUALIZATION TOO HIGH STATE FINDS

State Tax Commission Answers
Appeal of Spartans and Fault Will Be Remedied

ORGANIZATION HAS BEGUN

Of Sparta Order of Sons of Veterans; Veterans of Civil War
Desire That Their Sons
Get Together

SPARTA, Wis.—(Special.)—Recently the city of Sparta made an appeal to the state tax commission from the equalization made by the county board in 1915.

Wednesday County Clerk Jackson received notice that the commission finds that the city has been overcharged, that the assessment of taxable property in Sparta and several other districts in the county was relatively too high, and the assessment of taxable property in other assessment districts in the county was too low.

Because of this unequal assessment, the cities of Sparta and Tomah and the villages of Cashton and Wilton and the towns of Adrian, Glendale, Jefferson, Lafayette, Leon, Lincoln, New Lyme, Portland, Ridgeville and Wells were compelled to pay more than their just proportion of state and county taxes for the year 1915.

The commission ordered that this be remedied by deducting from the taxes in 1916 chargeable to these named cities and towns the amount they have overpaid this year and to the towns which did not pay their proper amounts of the state and county taxes this year, the relative amount will be added in the taxes of 1916.

The tax commission reported that Sparta's assessed valuation is $682,397 too high and that $1,766.71 in taxes be returned to the city.

Williams to Speak

Hon. Burt Williams, democratic candidate for governor, will be in Sparta Saturday evening, September 30, and will speak to the citizens on the issues of the campaign. If the weather is favorable he will lecture out of doors. Mr. Williams was in Sparta at the time of the fair and was a guest at the Sidney in the evening at an informal reception, at which time many had the pleasure of meeting him. Later in the evening he spoke in the city hall.

Mr. Williams will come here from Black River Falls, where he will speak at the fair.

Pre-Nuptial Party

The Builders' class of the Methodist Sunday school gave a grocery shower for Miss Josephine Roberts last evening at the home of Mrs. John Grutch. Supper was served and a pleasant time was had by all.

Miss Roberts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Moses Roberts, will become the bride of Mr. George Ellis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ellis of this city.

Aid Supper

The Ladies' Aid society of the Methodist church will hold their regular monthly meeting at the church Tuesday afternoon, September 26, at 3 o'clock. Public supper will be served from 5:30 until all are served.

Sons of Veterans Organize

A movement is being made to organize a society of Sons of Veterans in the city, it being the wish of veterans of the civil war. The sons and grandsons of these veterans over 18 years of age are eligible.

An organizer will be here Friday night, at the G. A. R. post hall in the court house, from 7:30 until 10 p. m.

Property Changes

The Chamberlain house on Wolcott street sold last week by Fred Chamberlain to the Naset Brothers, taking a farm in the trade, has again changed hands. The Naset Brothers have sold the house to James A. Ford, retaining five lots.

Falls in Barn

Robert Hutson met with a painful accident, when he fell from the barn loft, striking on the manger and fracturing some ribs. Dr. Williams is attending him at his home in Big Creek.

Local and Personal

Mrs. H. H. Riley returned to her home in Midway Friday, having spent several days here with relatives.

Mrs. H. G. Oaks of Tunnel City was a Sparta called Friday.

Mrs. Ben Sheffer is spending the week in La Crosse with relatives.

Dr. Wilson came from Kilbourn the first of the week for a visit with friends.

Miss Luella Graf is a guest of friends in La Crosse.

Mr. and Mrs. George Johnson have returned home from Portage. While there they took in the fair several days.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Borst are visiting in Marshfield.

Robert Herbst will leave Saturday

NORWAY AND SWEDEN MAKE A SECRET TREATY ON WAR

LONDON, Sept. 22.—"Norway and Sweden will never enter the war against each other. A secret agreement, which was made between the two governments in the anxious days of August, 1914, is a guarantee that such a thing will never happen."

A correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph company quotes Premier Knudsen of Norway as making this statement.

Asked if there was a corresponding agreement between Denmark and Norway, Premier Knudsen is reported to have replied in the negative.

ONLY HOPE FOR VICTORY IN U. S. KITCHENER SAID

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Before he was drowned off the Orkney Islands, Lord Kitchener, British war minister, declared that Germany could not be defeated unless the United States joined the allies, according to a story printed by the Evening Mail.

The Mail said Lord Kitchener made this statement in the presence of W. Cameron Forbes, former governor of the Philippines, and Benjamin F. Strong of the federal reserve board, in London last winter.

Asked if there was a corresponding agreement between Denmark and Norway, Premier Knudsen is reported to have replied in the negative.
